Well, it is almost over. The whole year has gone so fast. I can remember when it was about three months before you were to go to Hawaii is just one of the things I too had Dave. Remember got to go out together. Fred, you and I

Too bad the boys here won't like Hawaii. Don't worry I hope this summer I hope you do well on nurse's training and return to Hawaii someday.

Joan,
 Advanced Science has really been fun this year--- more fun than Chemistry was last year. We've had a swinging time here at CHS, & we've made memories we'll never forget. It's been great knowing a girl as sweet as you--- and you certainly are pretty. I love your great tan! Take it easy on the lips. Best luck now and always!
 Be good & have fun!

The Men at the Top

Mr. Hanson, Secondary School Consultant

Central and all other La Crosse public schools were directed by the La Crosse City District School Board and the superintendent of schools. The board's major activities included supervision of maintenance and equipment for all schools, management of personnel, and coordination of educational planning for the La Crosse school system. Superintendent Vergin was in charge of general management of the entire system. He and the school board made many major decisions concerning operations and facilities at new Central. Mr. Hanson, former principal of Central, was La Crosse City Secondary School Consultant. His duties included up-dating old courses and creating new ones and coordinating the curriculums of individual city schools.

Our Dynamic Duo

Mr. Voss strolls through the cafeteria on a friendly excursion.

This year Central found the need to delegate administrative duties to two principals. Principal Howard Voss has been at the head of Central for two years. He was largely responsible for the orderly transition from the old building to the new. The successful operation of Central depended on his long-range planning over the summer and throughout the school year. In addition Mr. Voss was in charge of teachers, teaching methods, and educational operations. Vice-Principal Harold Wheelock was in charge of discipline. He also worked out the complicated key system in the new building. Mr. Wheelock's daily duties included giving announcements, organizing assemblies, and aiding Mr. Voss with the operation of Central.

People We

Guidance and counseling were on a larger scale this year as Central's enrollment increased. A new building meant that the Guidance Department had better facilities in which to assist students. Besides giving advice on their courses, the guidance personnel helped students in the fields of testing, vocational and educational planning, financial assistance, and scholarships. Counseling was also provided for students with personal and social problems. Parents were invited to discuss students' future plans with the counselors.

As Central expanded, so did the work of the secretaries. They were kept busy sending report cards, failure slips, and grade transcripts and enrolling students. They were also a great help to the teachers and student body by aiding them in adjusting to their new environment.

Two groups of vital workers at Central deserved a great deal of credit for their efficient work throughout the '67-'68 school year. These were the cafeteria staff and custodians. Perhaps one of the most difficult things for students to adjust to this year was a closed noon hour. Mix-ups concerning first and second shifts, changes in the time schedule, and a shortage of seats in the cafeteria kept things hectic. Throughout the year, our cafeteria staff worked diligently to keep confusion at a minimum and to make the noon lunch period as enjoyable as possible. Volunteer student cafeteria workers assisted our cooks in preparing hot food and serving the student body.

Students punched lunch tickets and kept lines in order, while members of our faculty took turns directing students to tables and supervising combination cafeteria-study halls 119 and 121.

Cleaning a new school may have sounded easy to some people, but our custodians can testify to the contrary. With a combination of construction, sawdust, tracked-in dirt, no wastebaskets, and about twice as many rooms to clean, they were definitely working under handicaps. However, our janitors succeeded in keeping Central's many corridors clean enough to pass the "white-glove" test.

Teaching Technical Training

Central's Industrial Arts Department was designed specifically to help prepare today's student for meeting the requirements of a technological culture. Several different courses were offered in this field. Cabinet Making I concentrated on the fundamentals of woodworking and the use of hand tools and woodworking machines. Cabinet Making II included the construction of a scale model home and larger, more complicated pieces of furniture. Architectural drawing was for students interested in the building trades. It provided courses in designing and drawing of model homes, whereas machine drawing emphasized sheet metal drafting and design. Mechanical drawing, a basic and important part of an industrial arts course, was concerned with drafting and the "language" of drawing. Machine Shop I involved the elements of machine tool metal working, and the use of the lathe, mill, and grinder. Machine Shop II was an extension of the basic course and involved more complicated and precise layouts. Industrial arts assisted in the development of personal aptitudes, interests, creative technical abilities, self-reliance, and resourcefulness.

Coordinating Our Brains and Bodies

Physical Education was required for all Central High School students. Its purpose was to develop good physical abilities and improve the student's attitude in leadership, sportsmanship, and self-control. Moving to a new school caused many problems for the Physical Education Department. Much of the new equipment ordered did not arrive in time for classes making the future activities scheduled uncertain. While weather permitted, girl's physical education classes played speedball and field hockey on the field of the Children's Home.

Business skills were taught by Central's Business Education Department. Subjects offered included bookkeeping, consumer education, office practice, shorthand, stenography, typing, and clerical recordkeeping.

Understanding

As mathematics was considered the language of the sciences, it was important to students planning on a career in science, mathematics, or engineering. The space age, automation, and high speed computers made it so. Central's Mathematics Department offered numerous mathematics courses. Two years of mathematics were required by most technical schools and colleges. To fulfill this requirement elementary algebra and geometry were offered to and taken by most Centralites. The Mathematics Department branched out into beginning algebra, advanced algebra, Geometry I, trigonometry, Geometry II, and advanced mathematics. In the algebra course, the student learned to manipulate algebraic expressions and structures of the number system. Geometry developed habits of correct thinking, logic, and statistics and used geometric figures. Trigonometry expanded the fundamentals of algebra, while advanced mathematics treated both algebra and trigonometry on a higher level. The training Centralites received was designed to help them solve mathematics problems and to increase and improve general thinking ability.

Nature's Laws

As the world of science grew around us, the Science Department at Central also enlarged. There was a wide range of science subjects offered to Centralites. These science subjects could be taken in either of two courses, regular or advanced. Advanced science was for the student who intends to further his education and career in a scientific field. The regular science courses at Central were presented to give the student a general background and preparation for college. The subjects offered were biology, chemistry, physical science, and physics. The newest addition to the science department was the Planetarium. Although the Planetarium was used by many different classes, it was especially useful in the study of biology, chemistry, and physics. Since astronomy is the oldest science known, the Planetarium helped explain the relationship of astronomy in the development of the sciences. The biology classes have received a great deal of equipment. New microscopes, microprojectors, and visual aides were delivered. The chemistry and physics classes also received new equipment, including two new laboratories.

From Foreign to Familiar

Well-traveled Mrs. Spence relates interesting experiences she's had in foreign countries.

To give insight into the customs, art, music, philosophy, and temperament of people of other nations was the idea emphasized in the Foreign Language Department. Central offered four languages: French, German, Latin, and Spanish. Besides studying grammar, conversational usage, and various dialogues, all four foreign language courses included the reading of famous literature. French III students read stories by de Maupassant and other authors; German classes read a selection entitled "Emil and the Detective"; Spanish III completed a novel, PENSATIVA, and Latin Students read Cicero, Livy, and Horace. Both German and Spanish classes wrote skits and learned songs such as "Gaudeamus Igitur" and "La Cucaracha." The Foreign Language Department attempted to make its pupils better world citizens by giving them knowledge of cultures other than their own.

Shaping Our Future

Planning for the future was the major aim of Central's Home Economic and Driver's Education courses. The purpose of Home Economics was to transform young girls into future homemakers. In addition to designing fashions for their annual style show and making cookies for the Christmas tea, girls learned to sew, cook, and decorate a home. Driver Education emphasized that maturity and sound judgment are as essential to good driving as 20:20 vision and quick reflexes.

Education in the fine arts was furnished by Central's Music and Art Departments. The Music Department included Concert, Marching, Pep, and Swing Bands, Orchestra, Robed and Swing Choirs, and fourth and fifth hour Girls' Choruses. Their repertoire ranged from classical to popular and from hymns to marches. The Art Department offered creative courses allowing the individual to express himself in water color and other mediums, as well as work with leather, metal, and clay.

Learning from

Central's History Department offered four different courses this year which participated in several interesting activities. Modern history, an elective course, dealt with social, political, economic, and religious struggles in which man has been engaged since the time of recorded history. To broaden the views of his students, Mr. Sauer's modern history classes talked to men from the McCoy Job Corps who discussed their daily life and education. Corpsmen showed slides of the recreation program. World affairs, a requirement in all sophomore non-college preparatory courses, taught a better understanding of problems in the modern world. All aspects of countries were studied: social, economical, and political. United States history was a required course for all juniors. The course was changed this year to emphasize the period from 1890 to the present day. American problems, a study of our country's social, political, and economic problems, was a required course for all seniors. During the first quarter, Mr. Leuthe's American problems classes had panel discussions on problems of national interest. Mr. Barker's classes listened to speakers from the Democratic and Republican parties.

The Basics of Democracy

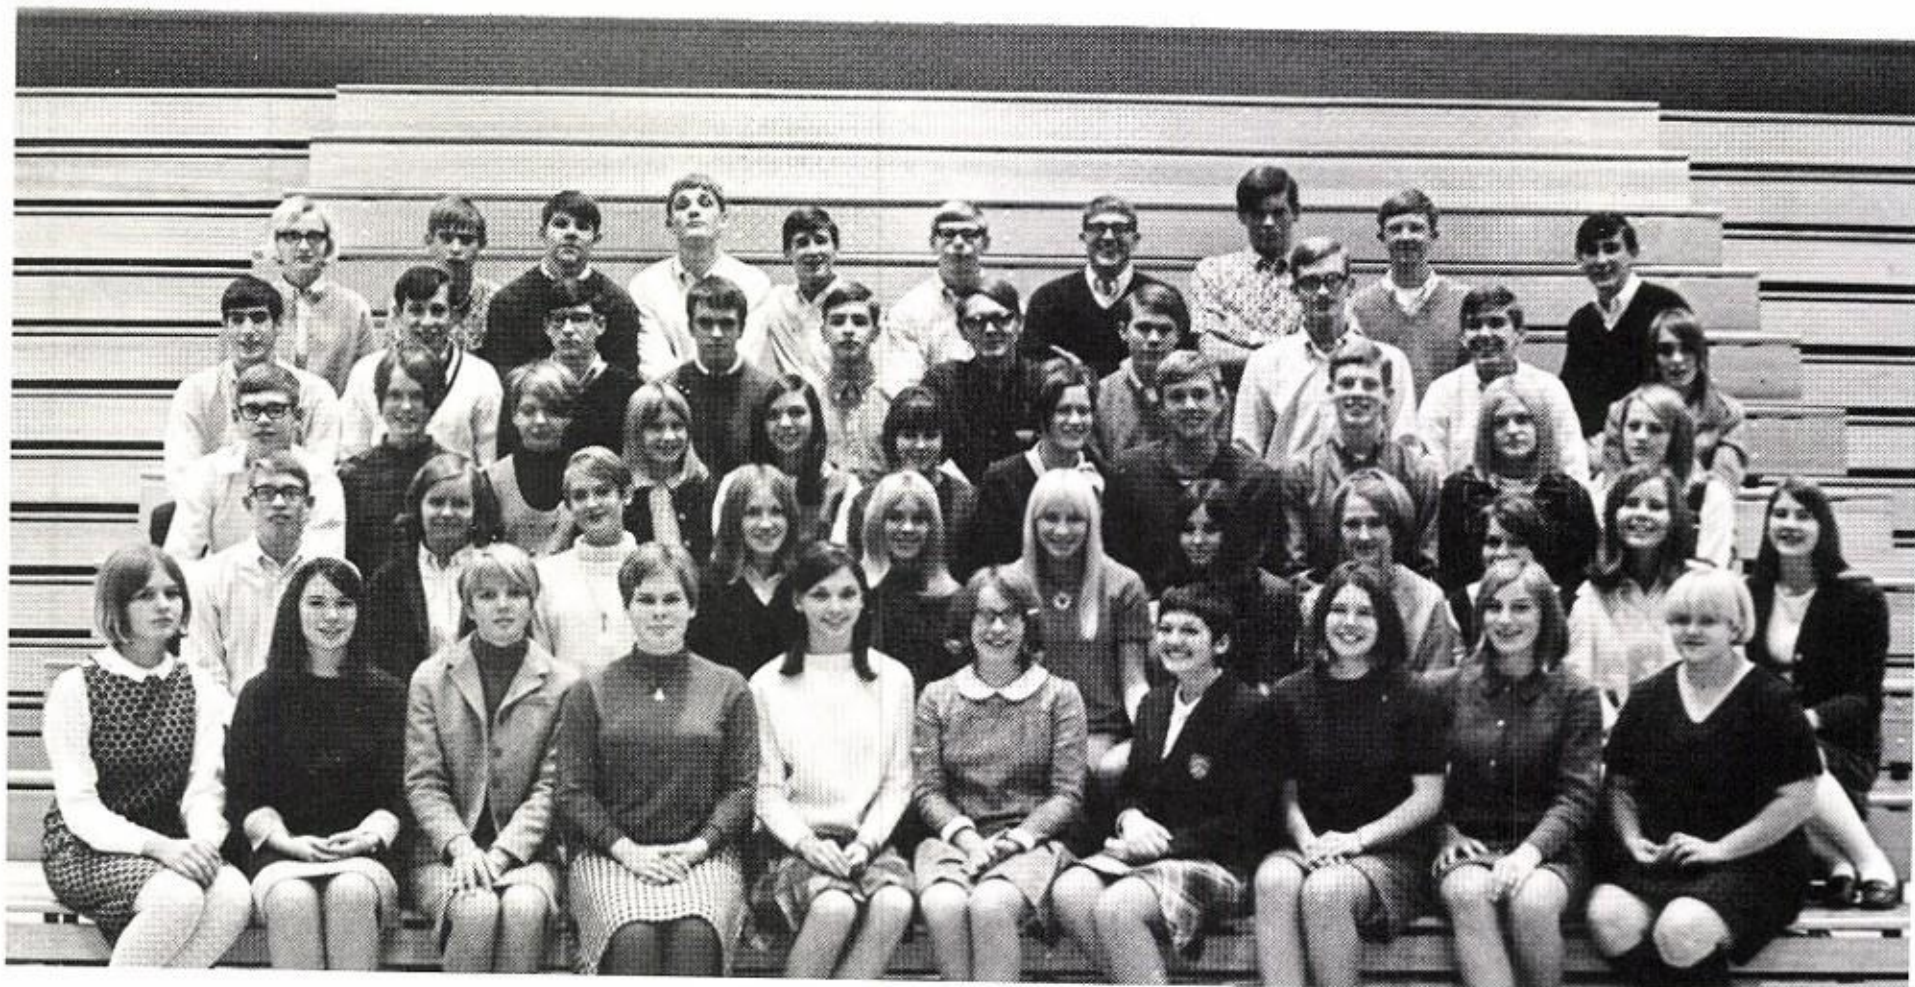

No mirrors in the girls' locker room? School opened as a new group of students met to face new experiences and conquer new problems in a new building. Getting mirrors for the girls' locker room was one of the STUDENT COUNCIL'S first projects. With John DeDakis as president; Sam Sundet, vice-president; Bob Black, treasurer; Sandy Toepel, recording secretary; Heidi Larson, corresponding secretary; and Mark Kennedy, parliamentarian, the Council worked hard to make the first year at new Central one of progress. Concentrated efforts were channeled into the investigation of the possibility of a mid-year break. Letters were sent to schools around the nation requesting information on their school's mid-year schedule. Their findings were compiled and submitted for official consideration. Each homeroom voiced its opinion through its elected representative, or in case of his absence, the alternate. Students played a more direct role in school government through expression of their comments and criticisms in the Suggestion Box. The Council also took action in the area of foreign exchange, investigating, discussing, and holding referendum votes in all the individual homerooms.

As a money making project, Student Council members sold red and black ball point pens with the 1967-68 basketball schedule on them.

Insuring Domestic Tranquility

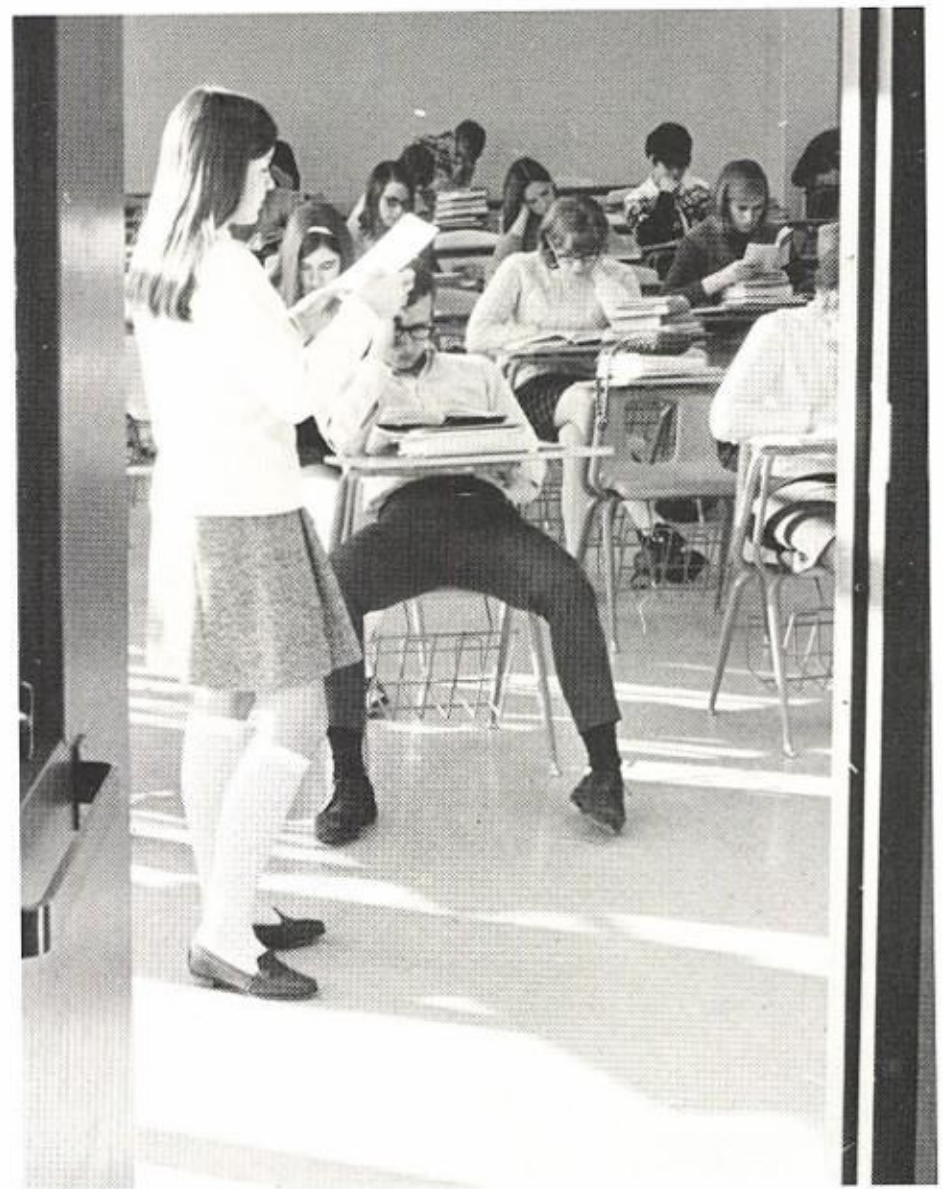

To establish and control an atmosphere conducive to study was the goal of the 224 Executive Council. Through admittance and expulsion, along with various other techniques emphasized in loud bell-like tones, the Council members kept the study hall in check.

The organization, led by president Sandy Toepel, vice-president Jon Sleik, and secretary Sandy Hillmer, met every other Thursday noon in Room 110. At the meetings members discussed the problems which arose during the course of the past two weeks. Critical criteria for action was brought before the council by the members and discussed on the basis of personal encounters.

A person may enter the executive board of the Honor Study Hall by exhibiting the leadership qualities necessary to effectively control a group of his peers. In the spring of the year interested students filed application forms. These were used by the incumbent council to determine scholastic and, by consulting the applicant's instructors, personal qualifications. The prospects were given the opportunity to take control of a study hall under the watchful eye of council members. If the student showed the ability to handle the study hall, his application warranted further investigation. After all applications had been carefully scrutinized and the students' personal abilities discussed, the members voted to admit ten to twelve applicants to replace the departing seniors.

With the new building came a larger, more lavish study hall room and more new problems. Study Hall 224 was probably the prettiest room in the school, due to a wall of solid glass covering an entire side. From this "picture window" bored or daydreaming students could rest their eyes on a panoramic view of the majestic La-Crosse bluffs.

The Big Brother and Big Sister organization was extremely busy for the first few weeks of school because of an unusually large group of new students groping through the halls of Central. This program, headed by Peg Curtis, was designed to give transfer students and sophomores some insight and ideas as to what to expect in high school. The job of the organization continued throughout the year with a member assigned to each sophomore home-room to answer questions and provide vital information.

The task of planning and promoting our social events rests on the shoulders of the Social Committee. This group, chosen through tryouts, employed the principle of "separation of powers," giving each class equal representation and voice in planning activities. Under the direction of chairman, Sam Sundet and secretary, Barb Fuller, they devoted countless noon hours to setting up the year's events. Planning was only the beginning for the committee, as they were also responsible for obtaining entertainment, for promoting student attendance, and for decorating for most social events.

Five years ago a new club was organized, creating Central's chapter of the National Honor Society of Secondary Schools. Each spring CIRCLE chooses a membership from recommended students who have proved themselves to be above "average." Membership in this society represents the highest scholastic distinction that a Centralite can obtain. This year the club's presiding officers were: Bob Black, president; Jim Gilbert, vice-president; Joan Markos, secretary; and Jon Sleik, treasurer. Meetings were held every other month and were advised by Miss Fremlin, Mrs. Hoyer, Miss Brye, and Mr. Wheelock. Those who wish to become a part of CIRCLE must be of commendable character. The quality of being a leader can't be confined to a classroom, and although at least a B average is required in each academic subject, affiliation with extra-curricular activities at Central should demonstrate willingness to "go the second mile."

In forty foreign countries and all fifty states, QUILL AND SCROLL membership is open to any senior high school which publishes a newspaper, yearbook, or magazine. Central's organization is composed of those juniors and seniors who like to write and have done outstanding work on Booster or Hi-Trib. Members are initiated in the spring, receiving a certificate, a gold-filled pin, and a subscription to the bi-monthly publication of the University of Iowa School of Journalism, Quill and Scroll. This year's officers were Jon Sleik, president; Jim Gilbert, vice-president; and Sandy Wood, secretary. In forty-one years of Quill and Scroll history, more than seven hundred thousand high school journalists have been honored with membership in this international honorary society. Its basic objective is to encourage and reward individual achievement in scholastic journalism.

Intensifying Our Christian Heritage

Membership in Hi-Y is open to all Central boys who are interested in government and who care about the future of the youth of today. This club enables the boys to strengthen Christian character while gaining much knowledge of governmental procedure and function. The leaders of tomorrow are made in organizations like Hi-Y. Leading the meetings was president, Sam Sundet; assisted by vice-president, Jon Sleik; secretary, Steve Rasmus; and treasurer, Bob Black. Jim Ablan served as historian while the duty of chaplain was fulfilled by Chuck Dawes.

In the spring delegates from Hi-Y were sent to Madison for the Youth in Government Program. For one day they participated in a model state government which included a mock legislature session, proposal of bills, discussion of issues which were important to the youth of today, and election of officers. This program enabled young men from all over the state to compile their ideas and to express the interests of Wisconsin youth.

For this program to be a success, the Hi-Y needed funds. Although each boy paid a good deal himself, money was also received from city service clubs. Car washes, dances, and different kinds of sales, such as selling Country Boy tickets, were held to raise the needed money. The club is also an asset to the community as it tackled service projects when needed.

Enriching Our Lives Through Giving

"To grow as a person, to grow in friendship with people of all races, religions and nationalities and to grow in the knowledge and love of God" are the goals of Y-Teens. The organization of Y-Teens is part of the Young Women's Christian Association. Its members believe in the importance of the Christian way of life, not only for individuals, but also for society. Their job at Central was to promote better relations among the girls. Urging the girls to extend their friendship to all students at Central, they piloted numerous activities and projects during the year which gave them a chance to make many new friends, to encounter different experiences, and to discover opportunities for self-improvement.

The group executed the distribution of friendship pictures to a majority of students as one of their main money making projects of the year. At Christmas they carried out the annual "hanging of the greens." A personal touch could be seen throughout the halls as the Y-Teens decorated windows, walls, and doors with traditional Christmas symbols and wreaths, bringing good cheer and spirit to our new school.

Different speakers frequented the meetings of Y-Teens. One of the most interesting was the talk by a Senora from Spain. The meetings were kept in order by president, Linda Waters; vice-president, Barb Koeller; secretary, Barb Baptie; and treasurer, Sid Rank.

Several Y-Teens participated in the Inter-City Y-Teens Council. This was made up of representatives from the Y-Teen organizations in the city. It planned joint activities for all the groups in an effort to get them all together in friendship and harmony.

Aiding and

A new addition this year to the rapidly growing list of organizations at Central was the Disc Jockey Club. This exclusive club had four members, hardworking Steve Valley, Bill Foust, Charlie Clauss, and Steve Coleman. These four boys were responsible for the noontime entertainment each day as they played popular and requested records in the gymnasium. They also took over at the dances for which no instrumental group or local disc jockey was scheduled. This group was well informed as to the operation and utilization of the equipment needed to produce effective sound in our new gymnasium. The club was off to a great start this year through the efforts of these four boys.

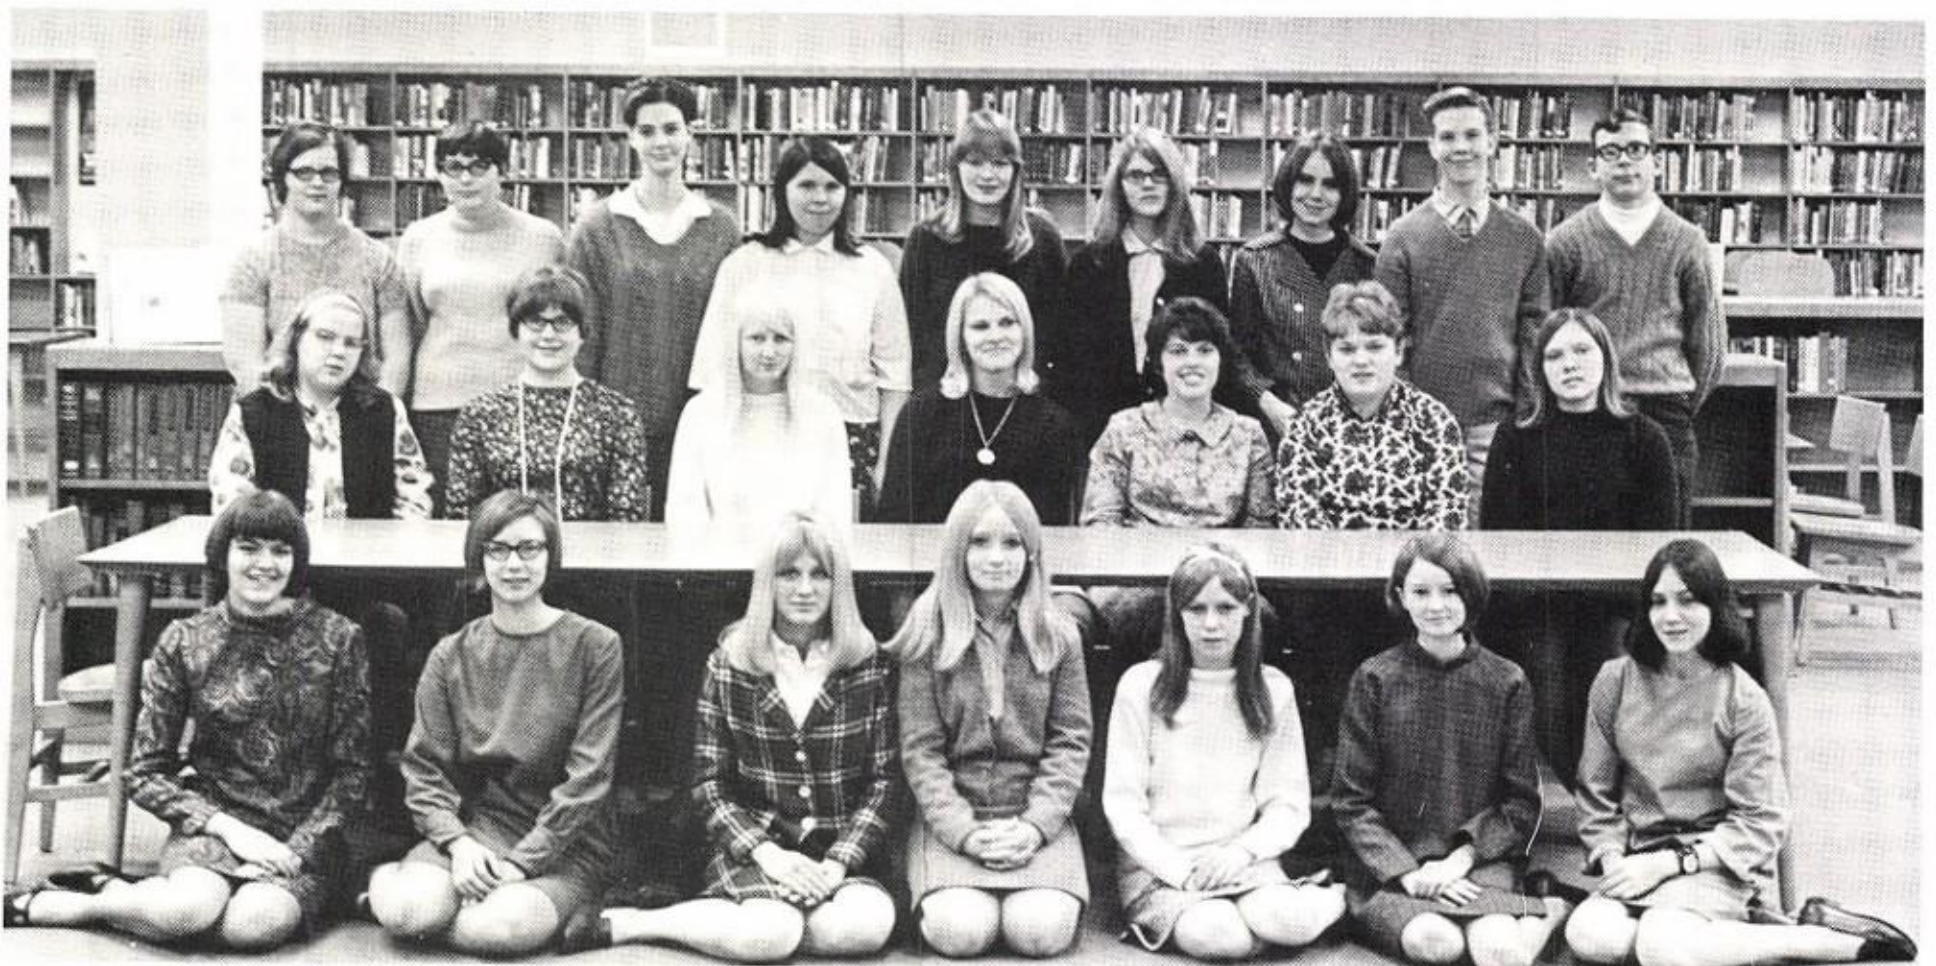

The definition of a library is "a busy workshop where persons of all ages can seek knowledge." To have a successful library, there must be order and organization at all times. Those students who upheld the rules for library usage this past year were the Student Library Assistants of Central. They kept the library functioning properly and orderly. This year they made the decisions as to where the various types of books belonged in the new library to best suit the needs of the student body. Making seating arrangements and numbering tables were other duties met by president, Patty Mosher and her able crew; vice-president, Barb Krismer; secretary-treasurer, Cheryl Leitz. The club also held a donut sale as a money-raising project.

Abetting

Behind the scenes of every concert, assembly, dance, and dramatic production at Central slaved the Stage Crew. These boys, assuming the various roles of electrician, carpenter, painter, lighting expert, and microphone manager throughout the year, pulled the strings which made the productions successful. The Stage Crew had their work cut out for them the minute school began in the fall. Though they rarely appeared within view of the audience, their efforts were seen and appreciated. Jon Wetzel, as Technical Director, and John Reiser spent many long hours planning how to use their acquired knowledge to produce better effects for the school activities.

Anyone who ever tried to skip a class had to outwit the dependable members of the Office Help who provided an invaluable service to our school. Each hour of the day four or five girls willingly spent their study hall or senior privilege hours working in the main office, collecting and alphabetizing attendance slips, answering the telephone, delivering passes and messages, and generally keeping the office system in top shape. The girls were very capable assistants to the office secretaries. Another duty of the office help was to take the numerous visitors, who were anxious to view our new school and facilities, on guided tours. The group had to have much knowledge of the locations of all departments and areas at Central.

This year the Art Club was turned loose in the basement art rooms where excellent facilities and roomy working areas were a needed improvement over last year's overcrowded "attic." During the year the members worked with various materials, including clay, water colors, chalk, and oils. These projects were exhibited in a special booth at the Mardi Gras. At the end of the year Mr. Zimmerhagl awarded merit pins to members who were outstanding in the field of art. The officers were president, Cyndi Peterson; vice-president, Heather Renner; secretary, Barb Nerison; and treasurer, Karen Lovold.

Always ready to help those in need, the Jr. Red Cross was a credit to Central. These students gladly donated their time to help the sick and the aged. Around Halloween this group had a reverse trick or treat at the St. Francis and the Lutheran hospitals. They donned costumes and took candy to the children in the pediatric ward. The Gund Home was a frequent target for Red Cross activities. The members helped with the craft program there and redecorated a room. At Christmas time the Gund Home residents were treated with candy cane pins, which were given by the Red Cross carolers.

Imagination and the ability to concentrate are two requirements all Chess Club members must meet. It may sound like a bunch of squares, but the Knights, led by King Gregg Underheim, Bishop Steve Larsen, and Exchequer Steve Bina, actually knew what they were doing at every move. This year's club met every available Monday for various rounds of check and checkmate. It also sponsored a Chess Tournament, in which representatives from several area schools, including Aquinas and Eau Claire, matched wits and talent in the game of skill. The membership has grown each year but as yet few females have dared to join ... maybe next year???

In an attempt to bring the contagious pep and spirit from the old Central to our new building, the Pep Club was reorganized and activated once more under the supervision of Miss Pitzner. This group of energetic Centralites had a total membership of more than 100. They met bi-monthly under the leadership of president, Pam Pappas; jr. president, Denise Mosher; vice-president, Julie Tausche; secretary Kris Haugen; and treasurer, Jayne Schroeder. The purpose of the club was to spread school spirit and to furnish the Pep Assemblies with ingenious skits. They could always be seen and heard at basketball games sitting in the new "card section" and filling the gym with their rousing support.

Yearbook Adviser Mrs. Cearley and Junior Editor George Swan offer suggestions to Sandy Wood as to how she could best lay out one of the pages in her particular section.

Commemorating

The Booster Editorial Staff keeps the school year and all its highlights forever vivid in our memories. Tryouts are held in the spring of the year. At this time all Booster hopefuls are required to write sample articles or to caption pictures or to do some project which indicates their aptitude in the fields for which they are trying out. This year's Editor was Jim Gilbert. George Swan held the position of Junior Editor. His task was to observe carefully all that the Senior Editor said and did in order that he would be capable to take over that role in the coming year. In addition there were various section editors who covered specific areas of the school life. These were Susan Schauland, Faculty and Administration; Patti Harris, Seniors; Sandra Wood, School Life; Kathy Harnish and Rich Carr, Organizations; Jonathan Sleik, Sports; Barb Pomeroy, Layout; Vicki Grosskopf and Terry Shannon, Proofreading; Diane Nokken, Typing; and Jonathan Wetzel, Head Photographer.

Many innovations were made this past year. Among them was the addition of Mrs. Cearley as advisor. For the first time in its history the staff had a room of its own in which to work. Many outmoded ways of expression were done away with and much of the book was revised from the pattern of preceding yearbooks. Photography was greatly advanced and the pictures came to express a great deal more imagination than they had previously. The book was lengthened in order to include more of what went on at our new school.

The staff worked long, hard hours to make this year's Booster what it is. Deadlines were posted, and everyone strove to get his or her section in on time. Although it took a while to adjust to the new surroundings, the staff did not lag behind for long. After school the Booster room was alive with people cropping pictures, typing articles, making and checking over layouts, trying desperately and often in vain to think of appropriate headlines for pages, and doing other innumerable activities. Working often into the evening hours, the staff seldom complained and continued to relinquish their time for the yearbook. When the yearbooks finally arrived, those who had worked diligently to compose it gathered eagerly to gaze at the finished product. Except for a few criticisms, the staff was satisfied with their Booster.

Almost simultaneously with the beginning of school, Booster Business Staff members began scanning the city in search of contributions and subscriptions from merchants and other businessmen. Chosen for their sales ability, reliability, and personality, the members were kept busy procuring the necessary money for the 1968 Booster. These dedicated students went to each prospective buyer and offered him one of three choices: Plan A, a listing in the Booster for two dollars; Plan B, a Booster for four dollars; or Plan C, a listing and a Booster for six dollars. Before setting out, each ambitious member was given a receipt book, a list of likely patrons, and a lesson in the art of fast-talking by expert Pam Pappas, Sales Manager. In the spring, after a winter's vacation, the members could again be seen running around for the Booster cause; this time delivering Boosters to each patron who had bought one. The girls were also busy around school, handing out Boosters to various home-rooms and selling plastic covers to protect the books. As a result of their efforts, a total of over one hundred subscriptions were sold this year. Much credit belongs to those students who spent many hours at their behind-the-scene jobs, because without them the Booster could never be published at the low price it has kept through the years.

Keeping Pace with

Even before school reconvened in September, Hi-Trib Editors and staff members were working diligently on the first issue for the first day in our new school. Working conditions were improved quite a bit this year, as the 50 member staff was fortunate enough to receive its own Hi-Trib room. This room was used by the editors during their study halls and after school when they assembled the rough draft of the paper at "paste-ups." Following the procedure set up in preceding years, the paper was divided into five sections and editors. These were front page Co-Editors, Joan Markos and Kathy Harnish; News, Janet Evens; Feature, Barb Ramlow; City, Paul Feroe; and Sports, Phil Gelatt. Photography Editor was Steve Mickelson and the staff was advised by Miss Rideout.

Many people do not realize the amount of work put into one of these papers, but actually over 50 hours are spent on it. The work begins two weeks before each edition when a meeting is held on the Wednesday after the paper comes out. Here the editors hand out assignments to their staff members. The reporters are then given a week to complete their story and to hand it in to their editor. The editor must then proof-read it and send the stories to the printers to be put into galleys. From these it is laid out on mock pages the way it appears in the final edition. This "paste-up" paper is then turned in to the printers to be run off the way the students receive it. When the copies get back to the school, they are folded and distributed to the various rooms by the Circulation Department.

the Current Events

Each of the five sections dealt with a different phase of school life. The news section dealt with the news around school, the feature section highlighted the creative abilities of some gifted Centralites, the sports section told of the various athletic events at school, the city section reported happenings around the city, and the front page featured the special events at school.

The Hi-Trib Business Staff is an organization which seldom receives adequate recognition for arduous work in generating the school newspaper. The costs of running the newspaper involve those of photography and engraving and printing processes which cannot be met with money from subscriptions alone. Consequently, the major costs are defrayed with profits gleaned from our many advertisers. These advertisers responded generously when asked to purchase space, and in turn, the staff was alert to afford them proper space in the newspaper. This year the job of the typists was to print invoices and the addresses of our many outside subscribers in La Crosse and other communities. Since the Hi-Trib is distributed throughout the United States, the typists worked diligently to accomplish this project. Vicki Grosskopf, with the aid of her circulation department, dispersed the Hi-Trib to over one thousand Central students, as well as to other subscribers, most of which were Central alumni. It is easy to see that this business staff is a hard working crew. The complex business of running a newspaper is headed by the skillful and experienced Mr. Johnson.

The Calculating

Students at Central were again given an opportunity to pursue their interests in the scientific fields of electronics, chemistry, and physics through membership in the Science Club. One of the chief goals of each member was completing a science project that could possibly be entered in science fairs around the state. The club, advised by Mr. Weinbender, met bi-monthly and was open to anyone sincerely interested in the many types of scientific methods and controlled laboratory experiments. To spark interest in Science Club, members invited speakers, gave demonstrations, and when funds permitted, took field trips of scientific interest. Presiding officers were president, Irving Lockets; vice-president, Steve Bina; and secretary-treasurer, Carol Buehrle.

Radicals, Central High School's math club, met twice a month for those students interested in mathematics. The chief purposes of the club are to increase the member's knowledge of mathematics, to give service to the school and community, and to help students understand the importance of mathematics in their lives. The club accepted fifteen members this year to increase their total membership to twenty-five. Radicals was advised and directed by Mr. Robarge, who was assisted by president, John Reiser; vice-president, Bob Black; and secretary-treasurer, Irv Locketz. Of special interest this year was the study of a computer-calculator. Students learned of the mechanics of the computer and then were allowed to experiment and learn more about programming. To better understand what they learned, the club members became a human computer and calculated the first few prime numbers.

The Enacting

Membership in Masquers, the girls' dramatic club, was offered to those girls sincerely interested in make-up, directing, acting, stage craft, and costuming details. At the tryouts held in the fall, prospective members were judged on their ability to recite a memorized monologue and on their value to Masquers. Each year these dedicated girls work long hours on preparations ranging from Pep Assembly skits to the one and three act plays done in cooperation with the boys' dramatic society, Harlequins. Under the direction of Mrs. Klund they presented the play "Papa Reads the Christmas Carol" to the Burlington Veterans. Presiding officers were Heidi Larson, president; Joan Markos, vice-president; Sue Nelsestuen, secretary; Pam Fahl, treasurer; and Barb Ramlow, historian.

Harlequins, the boys' dramatic society, is founded on two primary objectives: first, to give opportunity to students to work on a stage production in any capacity; second, to bring enjoyment and cultural enrichment not only to those participating in dramatics but to the viewers. The club, under the supervision of Mrs. Raith, found leadership in president, John DeDakis, who was assisted by vice-president, Bob Black; secretary, Scott Halverson; and treasurer, Jim Ablan. For the Christmas season they worked long hours in cooperation with the Masquers, producing the play "Papa Reads the Christmas Carol" for the benefit of the Burlington Veterans. In the spring they also produced their annual three act play which was presented to the public.

Expression Through Motion

Rochelle Ondell shows that dedication to an art entails hours of practice.

Late fall brought many beautiful sights, excluding the not-so-beautiful Orchesis initiates who could be seen walking around in draped banners, rolled down white socks, and weird make-up. These brave girls were observed hopping down study hall aisles, crawling in main corridors on their knees, and doing various other chores set before them by senior Orchesis members. All these efforts were finally rewarded initiation night when they became full-fledged members. Expression through dance was one of the chief purposes of this modern dance club. They met every other Thursday under the direction of Mrs. Lubbs, where they discussed possible money-making projects, planned out their spring program, and developed new dances for the school assembly. Last year's program for the public turned out to be such a success that they plan to make it an annual affair. This strictly girls' organization worked in groups of two to ten and practiced many long hours to capture the right effect through synchronization and expression through motion. Presiding officers were president, Mary Amunson and secretary-treasurer, Sara Gunderson.

Practicing Their Plosives

Forensics, under the direction of Mrs. Olsen, is an organization which correlates speech oriented activities such as debate, drama, and individual speaking events. In the fall members present a one act play, which this year received a B-rating at the state tournaments. There is also the annual individual speaking events' contest in the Spring.

Debate was open to any interested student who wished to develop skills in oratory, argumentative reasoning, constructive criticism, and spontaneous thinking. The proposition that the members debated this year was "Resolved: That Congress should establish uniform regulations to control criminal investigation procedures." Under Mr. Sauer our debaters have performed well in all tournaments.

With a Song in Their Hearts

This year the Central High School Robed Choir endeavored to maintain its past reputation as a superior musical group, and they succeeded. Under the expert supervision of Mr. Aronson, the choir members received valuable assistance in perfecting their voices. The Christmas Concert held on December 18 and 19 consisted of "Birth" by Sateren, "Carol of the Drum," a Czech carol, and other well-rehearsed seasonal tunes. The Spring Concert was very well-received. Other appearances by the Robed Choir were the Easter Assembly, the Memorial Day Assembly, the promotional concert at Longfellow Junior High, and Baccalaureate.

This select group of singers is carefully auditioned in the spring by Mr. Aronson. He chooses each individual according to the pitch, quality, maturity, and power of the singer's voice. Those who try out are usually from the girls' and boys' choruses and the junior high schools, but anyone from the student body may try out and be accepted.

Membership of over two hundred girls ensued the announcement that coeds at Central who enjoyed singing should become a part of Girls' Chorus. The girls were divided into two classes; IV Hour, composed mostly of sophomores, and V Hour, made up of the remaining juniors and seniors. Each chorus was coached under the direction of Mr. Aronson, who also instructed the Boy's Chorus. Many of the girls joined chorus solely because they enjoyed singing and wished to improve their vocal talents, but some of them worked diligently to gain acceptance into Robed Choir. The vocalists added a joyous spirit to the holiday air at the Christmas Concert as the IV Hour Chorus sang: "Angels O'er the Fields," "Joseph Dearest, Joseph Mine," "Russian Carol," and "Little Pine Tree." They were followed by the V Hour Chorus who sang: "Honor Him, Alleluia," "Go Tell it on the Mountain," "Carol of the Questioning Child," "A Virgin Most True," and "Holy Art Thou." After the Christmas Concert the girls once again began working on songs. This time they studied music ranging in style from semi-classical to pop as they prepared for their public appearance at the Spring Concert.

Pam Pappas concentrates on her vowel exercises.

A Melodic

In a school of about 1500, 30 some students qualified for Central's club for musically gifted teens. The name of the club was Nocturne, and this year's president was Larry Althaus; vice-president, Chris Midelfort; treasurer, Janet Evans; and secretary, Pam Fahl. Nocturne offered a medley of skills to all. Nocturne put on the annual spring assembly, delighting the student body audience with their display of talent. Try-outs were open to anyone interested and not just reserved for members of band and choir. The meetings were supervised by Mr. Danhoff, Mr. Aronson, and Mr. Baker.

In 1961 Boys' Chorus was dropped from the list of extracurricular activities due largely to a lack of interest, but this year the Central music department reactivated the Boys' Chorus. The purpose of the chorus was not purely for the students' personal enjoyment in singing, but also afforded all interested members an opportunity to obtain musical ability through the study of basic techniques. The group consisted almost entirely of sophomores, but a sprinkling of juniors and seniors upheld the honor of the upperclassmen. Their repertoire ranged from spirituals to Broadway Show tunes to current hits.

Touch

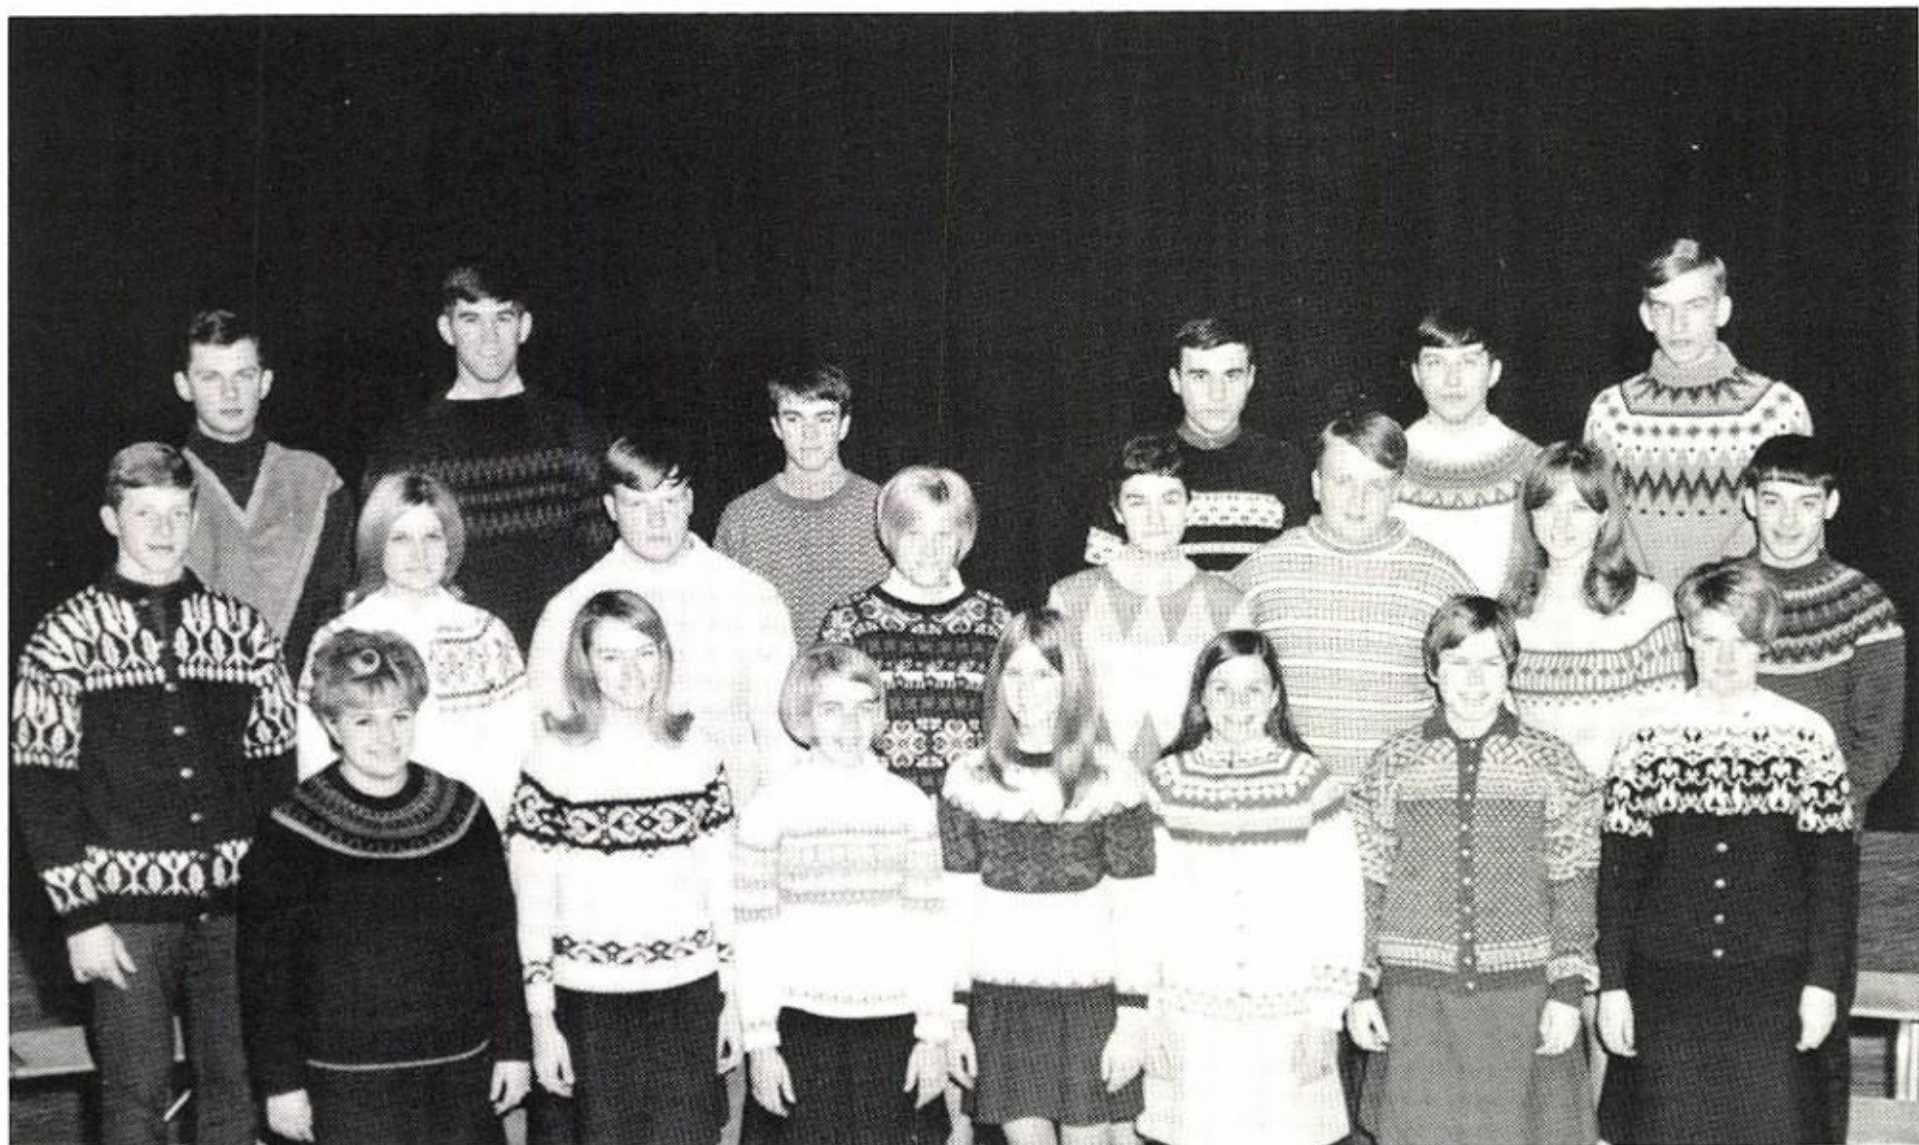

"Twas the night before Christmas and all through the house ..." Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without a word from Central's Swing Choir. As the auditorium lights dimmed, one could walk in a winter wonderland with the people on the stage who, with smiling faces and ski sweaters, radiated something warmer. Their enthusiasm added harmony to the Thanksgiving Assembly, and the Christmas and Spring Concerts. Hand-picked by Mr. Aronson, these twenty-one voices formed a select group from Robed choir. They sang popular numbers as well as difficult choral arrangements, and obviously seemed to enjoy doing it. Some of their selections from the 1967 Christmas Concert included: "Let It Snow," "Sleigh Ride," "Jingle Bells" (a fancy arrangement complete with a bell ringer), and "Winter Wonderland."

Virtuoso Larry Althaus' arpeggios have supplemented many concerts.

Soft spotlights cast their bluish purple shadows across layered streaks of red and black, winking at a polished horn, glancing at an aluminum mobile dangling above. Ninety citation chords breathed with the director's hand; ninety black shoes and socks anticipated his baton. Slowly he urged it down to his stand, pouncing on the drummers for the initial cymbal crash. A drum roll thundered, a trumpet . . . bass, trombone, baritone, oboe, sax, French horn pulsed their entrances with blended chords and kept beating right up through the bump note of Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever." The music didn't come from Mr. Baker's podium, nor did it depend on his beautiful risers to reach great heights. Bake's key word while directing the Concert Band was harmony—harmony of loyalties (to Central, Mr. Baker, the Band, and each member to himself). The harmony of sections depended on each individual to try his hardest to reach that farthest seat in the dark auditorium and fill it with light.

Stepping High

Skillfully directed by Mr. Baker, Central's 1967-1968 Marching Band consisted of 117 students, including the talented twirlers and pompon girls. This large group spent many hours practicing on the Children's Home playfield, often in unpleasant weather, thus the end result being that they provided football fans with excellent entertainment. During the half times of four home football games they performed numerous precision marching routines. In the first two home games the band formed single and double company fronts and circles. At the homecoming game they formed a crown for the queen, and of course, played appropriate music. A show entitled "Hollywood Presents" was given at the fourth home game constituting six formations. First, to represent the West, the band formed a pistol while playing "Oklahoma." To represent drama they formed a bridge and played "Bridge of the River Kwai." Other designs formed were a flying saucer, a Roman chariot while playing "Parade of the Charioteers," and from the Broadway musical "Sound of Music," "Climb Every Mountain" was played as the band quickly arranged themselves as mountains. A block C concluded the half time performance. Mr. Kruegal, a student from La Crosse State University, directed this show. In addition to the above commitments, the Marching Band represented Central in the Oktoberfest Parade, inning second place, and the Memorial Day Parade.

For the Instrumentally Inclined

Swing Band provided Central with popular music to suit almost everyone's taste. Under the direction of Mr. Baker, the band performed in the February 7-8 concert, coming across with a professional quality. This group also presented its successful Swing Band Assembly in the spring. The Swing Band consisted of twenty members, chosen by Mr. Baker, who auditioned for their parts at the regular tryouts for Concert Band in the fall.

Whether the scene was a home basketball game or a pep assembly the Pep Band was there to strike up the familiar strains of our pep song. Throughout the year, the Pep Band not only helped to raise school spirit, but it also provided us with excellent entertainment. Mr. Baker, the director, carefully selected members from the Concert Band. At the basketball sectionals the Pep Band performed between games and at half time.

Reviving the Roman Era

Under the direction of Miss Brye and officers, Junior Classical League is open to every Latin student. This year the club has been most successful with its projects. Beginning the year was the initiation banquet in which members dressed in Roman togas that they made themselves. The initiates were required to wear paper laurel wreaths on the following day to classes. The money-making project of the year was the selling of chocolate "turtles." At Christmastime there was a "Saturnalia" which was in ancient Rome the feast of Saturn. The Roman banquet always held in spring was another of the outstanding fun-filled activities. Several members were in attendance at the State Convention in Appleton, Wisconsin. The club was also represented at the National Convention. Heidi Larson, Susanne Cauffman, and Laura Iverson attended the Convention held last summer in Arizona. Many members hope to attend the 1968 Convention this year in Michigan. Students of Latin seeking more information in these studies will attend. The advisors actively participate with the students in making the convention an additional rewarding experience for everyone. Officers of the year were president, Laura Iverson; vice-president, Susanne Cauffman; secretary, Diane Foust; and treasurer, Mary Hanson.

With the Spirit of Oktoberfest

Juniors Joanne Knebes and Jeanne Johnson endeavor to get in Mrs. Moen's good graces by decorating a German-style bulletin board.

German Club, which aims to promote better understanding of Germany and its culture, has been progressive this year. Every other Wednesday after school, members met to improve their communication skills. Since non-German students were admitted to the club, an effort was made to instruct them in a few basic German phrases. Everyone being interested in German food, the bratwurst banquet scheduled during Oktoberfest was enjoyable. A program of holiday carols was presented to the occupants of the Hillview Nursing Home, which this year was followed by a social hour with hot cocoa, popcorn, and many other treats. Slides of Germany provided the group with entertainment at one of their meetings. Skits given in the German language were not only amusing but educational. The highlight of the club's activities was their picnic at Myric Park celebrating the end of the school year. It is easy to conceive why German Club has been appropriately called Studio Flott. Studio refers to the seriousness of the program of study and use of parliamentary language. Flott symbolizes the festive time enjoyed at meetings, banquets, singing, games, parties, and various recreational activities. This organization was under the leadership of president, Arne Slungaard; vice-president, William Menke; secretary, Cameron Gunderson; and treasurer, Linda Edwards. This club has been supervised by Mrs. Moen.

Restoring the Reign of Terror

To learn more about the language and its origin and to have fun at the same time were both the purpose and goal of this year's French Club—Le Cerle Francais. The club's activities got underway with the initiation, at which time all new members were required to compose and perform skits entirely in French. Other activities included an ill-fated picnic (a torrent of rain and cold weather prevented its being a success), a Christmas party, and the traditional banquet with typical French foods and beverages—excluding wine. The club was fortunate in having Jim Davison as club president for the second consecutive year. The other officers were vice-president, Barb Baptie, and secretary, Sandy Wood. Mrs. Lennon was the advisor.

In the spring of 1967 the club was able to make a trip to Chicago. Leaving LaCrosse at 2:00 one Saturday morning, the fifteen members arrived in Chicago at daybreak. Their first visit was to the Museum of Art, where they listened to Mrs. Lennon lecture entirely in French on such subjects as French art and famous French painters. Afterwards the club was given a guided tour of the museum. From here each of the fifteen was given leave to spend the rest of the day as he or she desired. Everyone reunited that evening for dinner. The trip home was much more subdued, but all agreed on the success of the expedition, and many expressed the hope that the journey could be repeated the next year.

The Matador Reigns Supreme

"Lo posible se ejecuta en seguida; lo imposible exige mas tiempo." This was the motto of this year's Spanish club, Los Hidalgos, under the supervision of La Senora Espence. It offered any student interested in Spanish customs, dialects, food, geography, or famous places and people an opportunity to broaden his knowledge and share in an experience of mutual exchange with foreign speakers. Through the showing of slides and presentations by native speakers, the romance and realism of Spanish America came alive and related to members no matter what level of learning they had reached. Meetings were held monthly with Bob Black and Cheri Niles presiding as co-presidents; Cheryl Leitz, vice-president; Jennifer Wood, secretary; and Maureen McDowell, treasurer. Two money-making projects of the club included a white elephant sale and the sale of Spanish Christmas cards. At the close of the year a banquet was held featuring Spanish guests.

Go Ann—

It was really great meeting you this year as a big sister you really helped me get acquainted. Thank-you very much. It was real nice having you in American

 Physics class has been quite different so far,
 as what we did
 this year. Everyone sure enjoyed the parties you girls planned. I sure missed you when you went to Hawaii.
 Someday I hope to go there and hopefully learn to

Half time brings with it a change in the game plan.

Central combines talent to chalk up another point.

Combination, Rifenberg—

Central had a drought in the score-box but had much talent on the field. The passing combinations managed to make new records.

The RAIDERS first foe this year was a Rochester team. Playing in Rochester, the Raiders bowed 21-7. The rushing game netted 17 yards but Rifenberg managed to connect on 10 out of 25 passes. The only Raider score came on a 18-yard pass from Rifenberg to Cooley. Central next met a Marshfield squad. The Raiders shutout Marshfield 48-0. Rushing the Raiders gained 143 yards while Rifenberg, after missing his first two passes, connected eight in a row for 243 yards. Ron connected to Cooley for two such pass-interception back eighty-five yards for a touchdown and bulled over from the twelve-yard line. Hicke and Dahl each ran over to help the score. The Old Obes were the next foes for the Raiders. Central managed to score once with Rifenberg connecting to Schmitt for fifteen-yard score, but lost 34-6. The Raiders next met the Menomonie Indians, who won 27-21. The Raiders went into the fourth quarter with a 21-13 lead. The Indians managed to run a punt back and connect on the long bomb in the last two minutes, nullifying Rifenberg's performance. He connected on nineteen of twenty-nine passes for 263 yards. Cooley caught ten for 153 yards. Central then came back to beat Eau Claire North 13-0. Hicke ran 180 yards and scored on a 64-yard touchdown. Pete Goerdt scored the other touchdown on a 1-yard plunge. Rifenberg threw sixteen times completing eight for eighty-nine yards. Wausau was the next foe for Central. The Raiders managed to control the Lumberjacks for the first three periods. Going into the fourth period, it was tied, 28-28, but Wausau walked away in the fourth quarter, winning 48-28. Hicke ran fifteen times for 154 yards, averaging over ten yards a carry. Rifenberg completed twelve of twenty-seven for a ninty-three yards.

In the first intra-city match of the season Central met Aquinas. Aquinas with everything going stopped Central 27-14. Rifenberg's passing was on hitting with thirteen out twenty-three for 218 yards but in twenty-seven attempts we could only get eight rushing. The Raiders then travelled to Chippewa Falls where three inches of snow had just fallen. The game was trouble with frequent flourishes of snow and hail. Rifenberg led the team to meet the Chippewa Falls squad on their field and put them down 36-33. Ron managed to connect on ten of twenty-five passes for 190 yards. He passed for four touchdowns and ran another one over. The other touchdown came when Duane Gordon bounded in to block a punt and Greg Olson ran it in for a touchdown. Don Hicke filed a big night running seventeen times and gaining 103 yards on the slippery turf. The Chippewa squad's only hope was Sullivan who, between his passing and running, kept the Raider's defense awake.

Coming home to close the season, the Central Red Raiders faced the fired-up team of Logan Rangers. Hampered by interceptions, the Raiders connected only five times on seventeen attempts, gaining eighty yards and bowed to the Rangers, 38-12. Don Hicke had an 85-yard touchdown run which accounted for much of his 96 total yards gained rushing. Ron Rifenberg, Central's quarterback, broke the conference record for passing with his total yardage passing of 1,405 yards. Don Hicke rushed 708 yards this season, while Steve Cooley had 37 passes for 599 yards and Tom Schmidt caught 24 for 362 yards.

J.V. Eleven Does Well in '67

This year, under coaches Terry Schaetzke and George Skemp, The Raider Junior Varsity defended their winning status and retained their Conference championship. The first two contests were against Conference foes Menomonie and Eau Claire Memorial. Both opponents waged hard-fought battles but the Red and Black emerged victorious. Central next traveled to Eau Claire to play a hard-hitting Eau Claire North team. Despite a good team effort the Raiders were forced to accept defeat. The Junior Varsity then played their first inter-city match losing to a tough Aquinas squad.

The final game of the season was against long time rival Logan. The game was very exciting because of the fact most of it was played in the dark. In the closing minutes of play the Raiders managed to score winning the game 6-0.

Harriers Place Big in Conference Meet

Veteran Cross Country coach Richard Mitchell began the '67 season with a nucleus of three returning lettermen. The Red Raiders' season was shortened considerably due to cancellation of several meets.

The Harriers opened the season with a 22-23 loss to Rochester John Marshall, with Greg Northrup (3rd), Dave Troyanek (4th), Dean Mickelson (7th) and Pete Holmlund (9th). The Red Raiders then participated in the Wausau Invitational, placing fifth out of seven teams. Central then traveled to Rochester Mayo where they dropped a 20-35 decision despite a third by junior ace Greg Northrup.

The big meet for Central was their second place finish to state tournament entry, Wausau, in the Big Rivers Conference meet. The Raiders easily out-distanced both Eau Claire Memorial and North with Northrup (7th), Troyanek (8th), and Mickelson (9th). Against an undefeated Aquinas team the Red Raiders just missed an upset 25-30. Pacing Central was junior Greg Northrup with a fine time of 11:19 for the second place.

In the season's final meet, the Harriers placed sixth out of the sixteen teams in the Class A Sectional meet.

"To let the team know the school is behind them," is the task of the eight varsity cheerleaders. To keep the student body spirited throughout the week before a game is equally as important as the enthusiasm at the games. This year, although the squad had no designated captain, they worked well together and accomplished much. The group originated many new cheers. The dedicated squad worked diligently every Tuesday and Thursday night when they practiced old cheers and worked on new ones that were presented with perfection at the pep assemblies and games. For basketball, the troop got new uniforms.

Because the junior varsity teams will be the big teams in future years, they are building important character and methods today. The B-squad cheerleaders back the B-teams and show the school the importance of spirit to boost the teams of tomorrow. They took part in the pep assemblies and helped A-squad supply the pep to back the boys. With Sue Heij as their captain, they organized many new cheers.

Competently advised by Mrs. Brueggeman, the cheerleaders not only cheered the team to win, but they also represented our school and encouraged the students to display sportsmanship, for fairness is also part of the game.

Head Coach Jerry Day began the 1967-68 season with only one returning letterman, John Ford. With the addition of transfers Tom Schmidt and Dave Hines from Logan, and All-Conference selection Rich Halverson from North Crawford, Central began a new season.

The Red Raiders placed second to city rival Aquinas for the city championship, and third in the Big Rivers with a 8-4 record. Central topped Richland Center in the season opener 81-64, behind the scoring reserves Dave Schwandt (25), and Bob Black (16). After losing to Wisconsin Rapids 58-48, the Raiders felled both Menomonee and Logan behind John Ford's 40 and 36 point performances. In overtime they lost to an undefeated Eau Claire Memorial team 95-89.

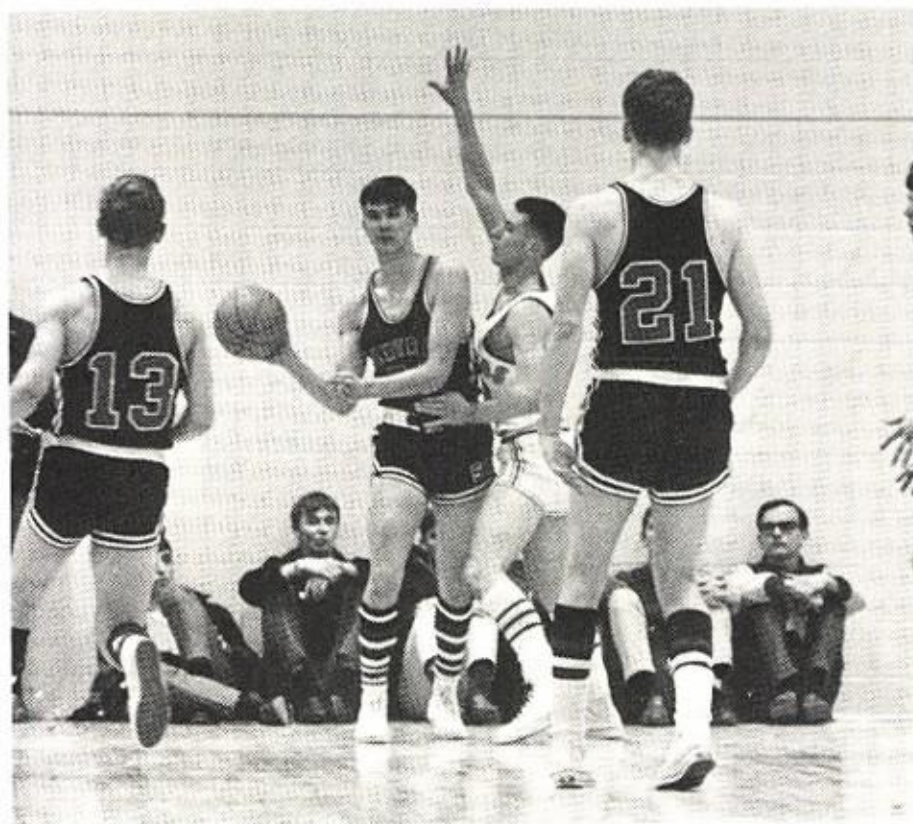

With a 3-5 record the Red and Black went on a five game winning streak. Second ranked and undefeated Rochester Mayo was a victim of Central's streak, losing 78-72. Dave Hines and Tom Schmidt did the damage with 15 and 20 points respectively. Hines led the victory with his fine defensive play, including 12 blocked shots. Against the Wausau Lumberjacks (ranked fifth in the state), the Red Raiders pulled another upset 74-73.

After toppling the Lumberjacks, the traveling Raiders lost a hard-fought but heart-breaking thriller to Menomonee 104-99. They then, with fierce determination, bounced back to score victories over two more conference opponents, beating both Logan and Chippewa Falls before losing to the Aquinas Bluegolds 72-66.

Schwandt attempts to supplement the score with a charity throw.

Passing keeps the ball moving and out of the hole.

Central's 1967-68 Junior Varsity season ended with a 11-7 record. With Coach Gary Robarge at the reins for his second season, the Red Raiders placed second to Aquinas in city competition and 8-4 in the Big Rivers.

The Red and Black finished strong, winning six of their last nine games. With Gary Rudy scoring 20, and Jerry Stellick 16, they blasted Chippewa Falls 72-48, and then knocked off North 83-54 behind Tom Day's 20 points.

The sophomores headed by first year coach, Robert Barker, compiled a 7-5 record. The Raiders picked up close wins over Logan, Onalaska, Holmen and Holy Cross, while smashing La Crescent 82-53 for their big win of the season. The soph's were led in scoring by 6'2" center Rich Mitchell as well as in rebounding, with guards Rich Reichelt and Bruce Javenkowski providing the outside scoring.

Bushek, Fry, Kurth Battle in State Meet

Central's matmen had a winning season this year. Led by captain, Kim Fry, and under the direction of coach George Skemp, the Red Raider wrestlers won five dual meets and took second at LaCrosse State. They finished by capturing the team trophy at Regionals, ranking fourth at Sectionals, and sent three wrestlers to the State Meet.

Not only did they function well as a team but the grapplers had fine individuals as well. At LaCrosse State Kim Fry and John Bushek won firsts while Bill Botcher took a second, along with Dale Benson, Bruce Dahnke. Fry and Bushek again took top honors at the Eau Claire North Invitational.

At Regionals Fry and Bushek were joined in first place by Steve Kurth and were accompanied to Sectionals by second place winners George Frost, Doug Bacon, and Bruce Dahnke. Fry placed first and Kurth and Bushek took seconds to qualify for State.

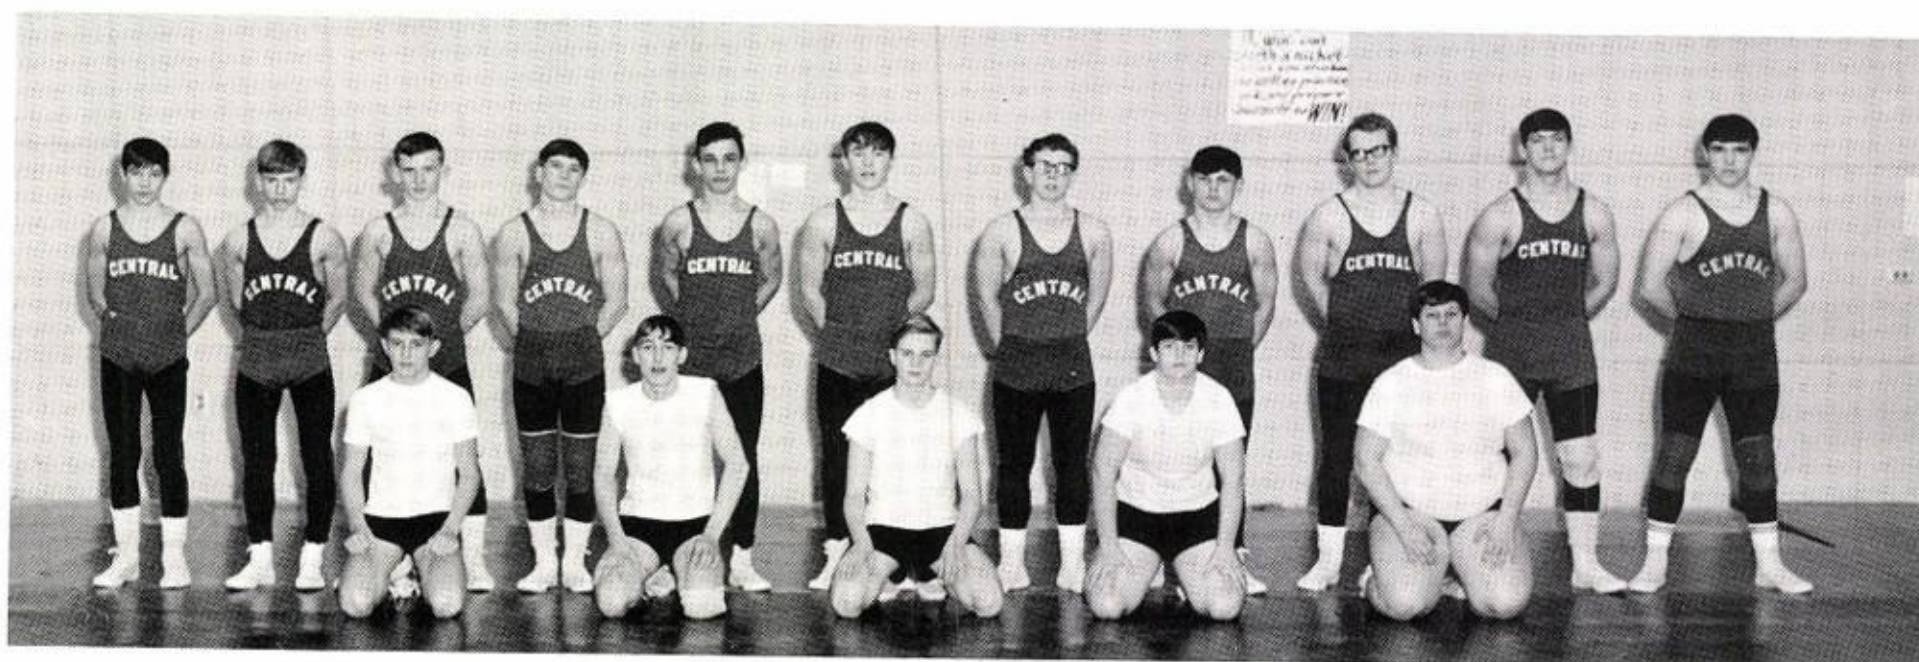

The B-Team under coach John West also did well with six wins and one loss.

Ski Team Takes 4th at Rib Mountain

Central's skiers, coached by Mrs. Lubbs, opened their season at a triangular meet at Wausau. Tom Ringdahl took first place in the slalom, giant slalom, and downhill competition helping Central to take second place. The Raiders followed up competing in the Sturgeon Bay Invitational placing second close behind Sturgeon Bay, 407.7 to 408.7. Central then swept the Mt. LaCrosse W.I.A.A. Invitational. The Raiders had 339.5 compared to second place 427.9. Central next hosted Aquinas in a dual meet, winning it 210.5 to 272.6. Tom Ringdahl won the slalom and giant slalom while Alf Sivertson and Jim Berg won the downhill. In the State meet at Rib Mountain Central, being 16 seconds off the pace, placed 4th. Ringdahl's time was tops for Central and second in all competition.

Because athletics were such an important part of the school life at Central, it was only right that the sportsmen comprising our teams and squads received recognition. The Lettermen's or L.C. Club of Central stood as the distinguished organization for boys who earned letters for excelling in sports. Along with praising athletic ability, the L.C. Club also upheld the ideals of competition and sportsmanship. Lettermen annually conducted the Memorial Day assembly by forming an impressive honor guard. Although it had stiff qualifications for membership, true Central athletes were proud to have given of themselves in sports to be a member. Their adviser, Babe Weigent, helped them realize their future goals in sports.

The purpose of G.A.A. or Girl's Athletic Association was to give athletic-minded Central girls a chance to participate in extra-curricular sports activities. The organization accomplished these ends effectively as the girls participated in many sports this year due to new facilities and equipment. President of the organization was Patty Melby and Wanda Kennedy, secretary-treasurer. Meeting once every week the group took part in basketball for the first semester. During the winter they participated in indoor track activities such as running and hurdling. During this time the girls also played volleyball and experimented with new skills on the trampoline, the horse, and the tumbling mats. In the spring sports turned to softball, outside track, and field activities. Also in the spring, G.A.A. held their annual track meet and play day with Logan. Girl's Athletic Association was advised by Mrs. Brueggemann.

The idea that started as an "experiment" was turned into a tradition for Central. They were the twelve colorful, spirited senior girls known as the Pom Pon girls. The girls were captained by Connie Day and were very ably advised by Miss Ruehl. The group has come far in the short time it has been in existence and will now become a part of Central.

Members of this year's Raidettes were Sue Schauland, Mary Carlson, Chris Conat, Carolyn Noel, Lori Kellicut and Barb Molzahn, who was head majorette. The group created their own routines. The Raidettes marched with the band at all parades and exhibited their routines at football and basketball halftimes and pep assemblies. Their adviser was Mr. Baker.

Coach Vavra

As the warm spring sun drove the frost out of the soil the Red Raider athletes took over the baseball diamond once again. Our new coach, Mr. Vavra, got the boys working on calisthenics and thereby got the baseball season off to a good start.

To the cracking sound of bats and the sound of running feet and of course mingled with shouts by coaches and players the team prepared for their first contest against the hard ballers from Winona. The Central team won this game at home but dropped a closer contest in the repeat performance away on Winona's home diamond. Continuing the non-conference season the Raiders next met a strong Tomah team but won the battle with a score of five to two.

Central's Red Raider diamond men next began the annual test of determining the intra-city championship and played two intra-city contests in a row. The Raiders were prepared with school spirit, but bad luck disappointed the team as they were shut-out by Aquinas and lost by only one point in the very close ensuing battle against Logan.

The Red Raider hard ballers next met with their rivals from up north at Eau Claire Memorial. It was a hard fought battle on the diamond but Central bowed out by one point when the seventh inning finally came to an exciting but saddening close.

The closing half of the intra-city schedule gave the Central Red Raiders one more chance to capture the title for the city championship. In the second and final battle against Aquinas, the Raiders closed the score from the first engagement and, although they did not let a shutout go by, the final score was Aquinas four and Central two. The final game against Logan was also a repeat loss with a disappointing one run deficit when the third out of the final inning ended the game. The Central Red Raiders finished out their season at the district tournament in Sparta. They came up against tough competition right from the start and dropped the final season battle against Sparta, 15-6.

Golfers Burn Links, Go to State Tourney

Mark Kennedy shows his form on and off the course.

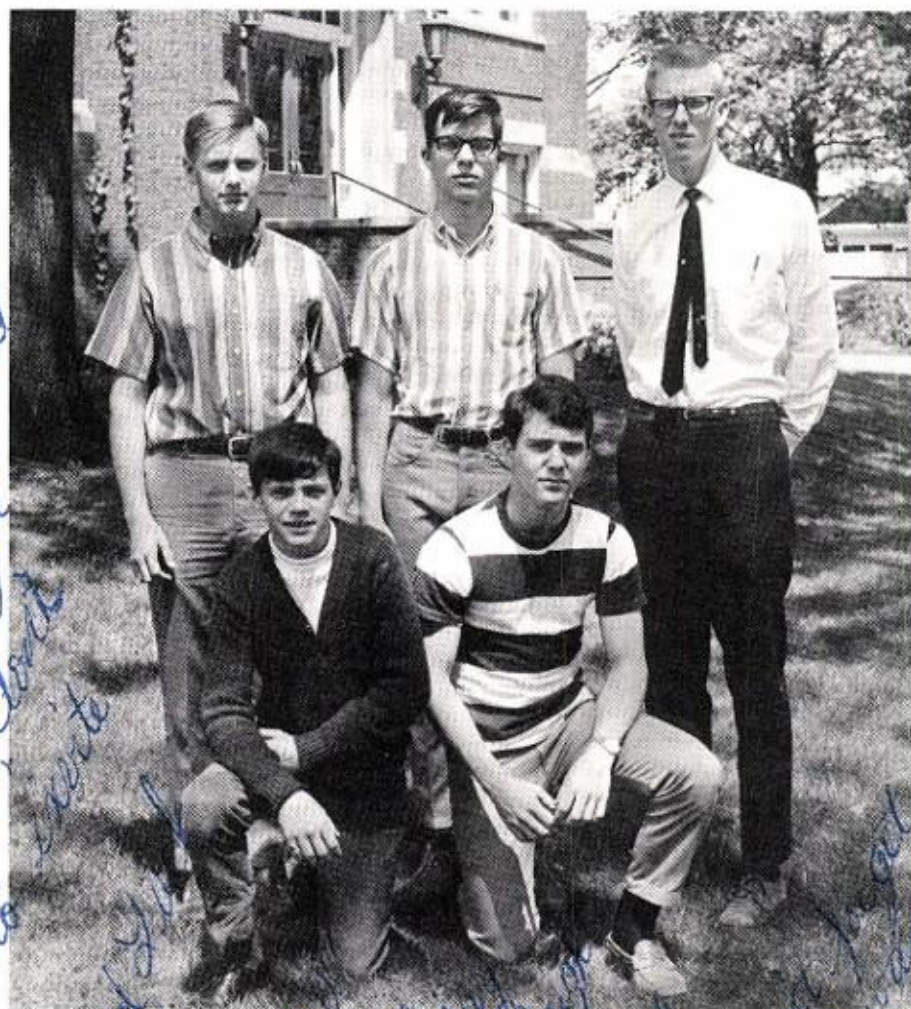

Despite a tough schedule of competitors, Central's golf team this year showed surprising determination and desire to win, a characteristic of all Central athletic squads. A spirited team of Red Raiders represented Central and did a fine job for both school and team. Although the linksmen found trouble with tough non-conference competition, they held up their record by winning a majority of conference battles.

The first dual meet on the greens was a conference match—and an intra-city battle—with Logan. This the Raiders won. The next dual meet was a loss to Aquinas, which would determine later in the season the city champions. Following these intra-city meets was a conference duel with Eau Claire Memorial in which the opposition again won. The Red Raiders next battled linksmen in non-conference matches with two teams from Minnesota. They lost the first to Rochester Mayo and the ensuing meet was dropped to Winona. The final dual meet of the season was a Raider triumph in a conference battle with Chippewa Falls.

In wrapping up the season the Red Raider linksmen captured the title at the conference meet, placed second in the Sectionals, and qualified the team to participate in the State meet.

Raider Netmen Take Second in Big Rivers

The '67 Red Raider Tennis Team, with Coach Weinbender at the reins, finished the season with a 4-4-1 record. Central placed second to undefeated Aquinas in intra-city competition.

With Dick Schreiber and Tim Goode picking up wins in both the singles and doubles matches, the Red and Black opened the season with a victory over Winona 5-3. Toppling the Logan Rangers 9-0 and 7-1 in two matches the Raiders then beat Eau Claire Memorial 5-4.

The Red Raiders placed second to state tournament entry Wausau in the Conference meet. Schreiber and Greg Belfany placed third in the doubles, and sophomore Scott Rockwood was third in singles competition.

Cindermen

The Red Raider track team compiled five firsts this year under Mr. Hackett. They won the sectional tournament this year to highlight the season.

Central opened its season at Wisconsin Rapids where Central won three of ten events, scoring in nine. The Raiders then participated in the state W.I.A.A. meet. The Centralites then met Winona for their first dual meet of the season and scored a decisive victory. The Raiders next went against Aquinas with Paul Christianson, Mark Dobbs, and Kim Fry taking firsts in a losing effort. Central scored a 92-26 victory over Rochester Mayo where the Raiders took eleven of fourteen events. With many key men out of action with injuries, the Raiders took fourth place in the Comet Relays. Central then scored 33 points to capture third place in the Peacock Relays. After splitting their first dual meets, the Raiders beat the Old Abes. Competing in the Dubuque Relays, Central, led by Carl Surom and the relay team of Dennis Haldorson, Greg Northrup, Tom Custer, and Jeff Melby, took sixth place. At the Durand Relays the Raiders with five firsts scored 55 points, taking first place. In the Big Rivers meet Surom, Oren Pengra, Fry, and Dobbs each scored firsts to give Central second place. In the Sectional Tournament the Raiders scored 68½ points to give them first place.

Class of '68 Boasts

Commencement was heightened by the dynamic speeches of four of Central's most eminent speakers. John DeDakis, Margaret Duffy, Jim Gilbert, and Sandra Toepel were elected by the senior class because of their efficacious abilities as speakers. All of these speakers were Jr. Ex. Finalists, Jim and Margaret receiving top honors. Retrospectively commencement speeches have been centered around a definite theme. This year an inspirational endeavor was attempted. Each speaker selected one aspect of a centralized theme and diverged on an individual topic. These impelling speeches were presented at the senior assembly and Commencement.

Ours was an era which brought many changes to Central, a new building, a $30,000 planetarium, new furniture, and an elaborate gym. Though there were many new ideas at Central this year, a few of the traditions of old Central were carried over to the new building. One of these was the election of the senior class officers. This year Bob Black, Ray Sundet, Sandy Wood, and Jeff Potter were elected for the offices of president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer respectively.

One of the most important projects of the senior class was to decide what their class will leave to Central.

Superlative Students

Central High School proudly announced its top ten scholars of the senior class. They are, alphabetically, Margaret Ablan, Robert Black, Peggy Curtis, James Gilbert, Joan Markos, Maureen McDowell, Rochelle Ondell, Barbara Pomeroy, Susan Schauland, Sandra Toepel, Christine Weber, and Barbara Young.

Rank is based on final grade point averages of sophomore and junior years and the first semester of the senior year. Because most colleges ask for the applicant's class rank, a reputable rank is very important to college bound students. Those who have developed study habits leading to this academic excellence in high school will very likely also succeed in their college studies.

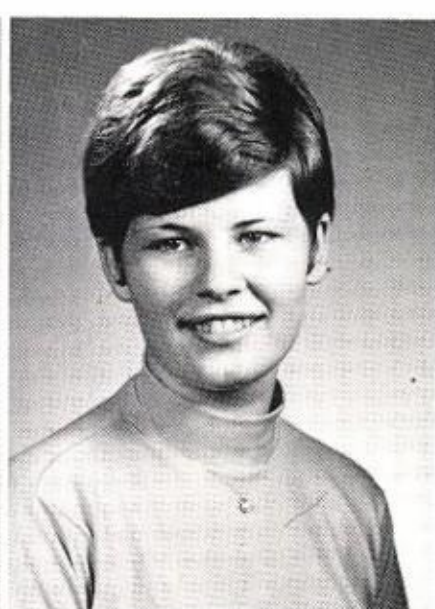

Central's Senior of the Year, Joan Markos, sits back contentedly in her Hi-Trib room as Patti Harris, Senior Editor of the Booster, interviews her.

This year the La Crosse Kiwanis Club started a new project for the city high schools. Each month one student was chosen from each class of one of the three city schools, Central, Logan and Aquinas. Senior of the year was Joan Markos. She was chosen on her ability to cooperate, and her sense of responsibility. Joan is also Central's D.A.R. representative, co-editor of the Hi-Trib, secretary of Circle, and a member of Studio Flott. She was October's Student of the Month.

Fall Festival

Mike Hurley, Sig Gunderson, and Bruce Danke make up the relay team that carries the torch symbolizing school spirit from Old Central to the new school.

Rich Thill leaps for joy as he is announced Fall Festival "Queen" over the other contestants, Dave Schwandt, Bruce Danke, and Mark Collins.

Continues Old Traditions

Central's traditional Fall Festival was held from October 9 through October 13. Because of our new surroundings, it was a combination of customs from past years and starting of new customs to be retained in the future. The entire week was a prelude to the climax on Friday night with the football game between the Wausau Lumberjacks and our Red Raiders.

The first activity was "Whisper Day," when everyone was to whisper "Beat Wausau" before saying anything else. This day also saw the putting up of pep signs created by the cheerleaders in their attempt to boost school spirit. The student body as a whole was asked to show their enthusiasm on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday by wearing "Go, Fight, Win" tags.

The pep assembly on Thursday evening brought to a peak the spirit that had been building all week. The rally began with the entrance of a torch carried by a team of four junior boys in a relay from Old Central to the new school. This torch symbolized school spirit which had changed locations along with the school but had not changed in its force.

Entertainment and "fire-up" material was provided by the cheerleaders, Pom Pon Girls, Masquers, and some junior boys. Babe Weigent's annual pep talk proved, as always, to be a great inspiration to all present.

The evening reached its climax as Phil Gelatt announced the new queen, Caroline Stuckey, and her court: sophomores, Barb Linder and Teri Reichert; juniors, Charleen Brague and Linda Edwards; seniors, Heather Renner and Sandy Toepel.

On Friday night the Marching Band, Pom Pon Girls, Cheerleaders, Fall Festival Court, and homeroom floats marched from Old Central to Memorial Field in the annual parade. For the third consecutive year, Miss Boller's homeroom won first place in float competition with their theme "Udder Defeat."

The "Harvest Moon" dance, with music by the "Molly Maguires," ended the week of fun, gaiety, and school spirit.

School Year Is

November 13-17 saw a turn of events at Central with the annual Twirp Week. Events of the week commenced on Monday with "Feed Him Day". Lunches were prepared and brought to school by the girls for their dates. Tuesday brought somewhat of a hush to the school with "Silence Day." Girls were to refrain from talking to any boys for the entire day. A humorous note was added on Wednesday when girls wore their boyfriends' sweaters for "Sweater Day." On Thursday, "Pig-tail Day," girls appeared with as many pigtails in their hair as their dates had letters in their first names. Along with Friday came "Tag Day" when each girl wore a tag bearing the name of the fellow she escorted that week.

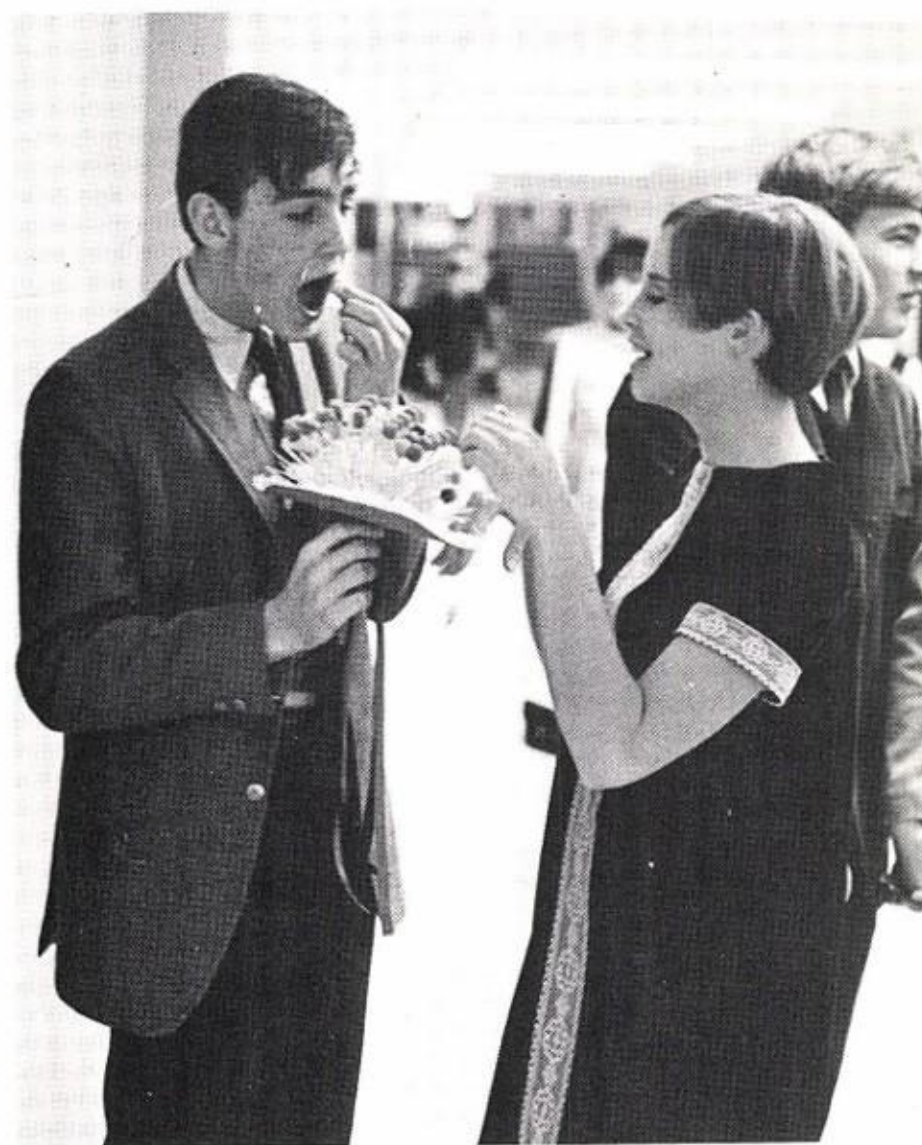

The dance was held on Friday night with music provided by the "Continental Congress." Girls used their imaginations in making corsages for their dates to wear on this occasion. The girls had to treat the boys to dinner after the dance.

Boys were asked to place the names of those girls who did not comply with the rules in the penalty box. On the following Monday, Kangaroo Court was held in the auditorium where members of the Social Committee passed sentence upon the offenders. Thus ended the 1967 Twirp.

Centralites at Twirp enjoy music of the "Continental Congress" as the dance concludes the week's activities.

Girls enjoy themselves at the dance after slaving for a week.

Discouraging Bill Menke's appetite for dinner, Jayne Schroeder feeds him his corsage.

Jr. Ex. is a research and speech study which began nearly fifty years ago for the purpose of increasing interest in public speaking. In preparation for the Jr. Ex., the student chose a topic reflecting his own personal interests and the contributions of his subject to society followed by an extensive research on the individual and his background. He then chose a theme around which to prepare a five-minute speech. Each junior English class chose a boy and a girl to participate in the Jr. Ex. semifinals. The ten finalists were Sara Gunderson, Sue Nelsestuen, Barb Ramlow, Kathy Simpson, Laurie Wetzseon, Bill Ash, Terry Brandeau, Hunter Frederick, Paul Kavanaugh, and Dave Schwandt. Emcees for the Jr. Ex. assembly were Denise Mosher and Tony Tanke. Winners were Kathy Simpson, who spoke about King Robert the Bruce, and Hunter Frederick, whose subject was Jackie Robinson.

In order that the state youth of high school age better understand the workings of their government, the American Legion annually sponsors Badger Boy's State with its Auxiliary sponsoring Badger Girl's State. John DeDakis, Jim Gilbert, Tim Klund, and Ray Sundet were Central's delegates to the convention held in Ripon. Caroline Stuckey was at Madison representing Central. Some of the offices held in the mock governments were assemblyman, county supervisor, party convention delegate, city attorney, and city treasurer. The delegates were housed in college dorms or fraternity houses where they met their contemporaries, from all over Wisconsin and made many lasting friendships. Governor Knowles, Bronson LaFollette, and Secretary of State Zimmerman were a few of the dignitaries that the Central representatives saw. The knowledge, leadership, and strength of character achieved by the Badger State conventions is necessary if "in the youth of today, walks tomorrow."

Coach Day Stresses the importance of backing our team.

Central's second annual Mini-Homecoming began with the entire student body and faculty attending the afternoon's pep assembly. The assembly opened with the pep band marching across the gym floor and playing Central's pep song. Candidates for Miss Mini-Homecoming 1968 were introduced, and a panel of judges, made up of six Central athletes, chose "Bloody Mary" (Jeff Cozy) as queen. Mr. Zimmerhaki's homeroom won first place in the float competition with their theme "Out Jump the Jacks." The fired-up spirits of Centralites carried over from the pep assembly to the game that night with the Wausau Lumberjacks. An overflowing crowd cheered the Red Raiders on to an exciting 74-73 victory. At half time the Pom-pom girls provided the entertainment and the floats were paraded around the gym. The dance after the game concluded the events of Mini-Homecoming 1968.

Masquers and Harlequins once again united their talents to present their annual play entitled "Blithe Spirit." The play centered around the characters of Charles Condomine, (John De Dakis), a wealthy novelist, and his wife Ruth (Leslie Michelson). In preparation for one of his literary creations, Mr. Condomine asked his wife and Dr. and Mrs. Bradman (Bob Black and Sue Jenkins), old friends of the family, to be present at a seance. The conductress for the evening was Madame Arcati (Kris Haugen) who brought back to life Charles' deceased wife, Elvira (Heidi Larson). After her return, Elvira began her attempt to regain the companionship of her former husband. This proved to be the cause for much worry and many problems on the part of Mr. Condomine, and was the main source of action for the remainder of the play. At the end of the play, the maid (Nancy Schleh) was discovered to be the medium between the ghost and Madame Arcati.

Mrs. Britt and Mrs. Klund were directors for this "Improbable Farce" which was given in the school auditorium on April 13 and 14.

Through hypnosis, Kris Haugen tries to find out if Nancy Schleh was the medium for the seance, while John De Dakis awaits her response.

Barb Brindley and Pam Pappas are two of the many workers who give up much time and effort to promote their candidate.

Kathy Harnish and Cheryl Hanifl struggle to hand their campaign banner during the time which is allotted them.

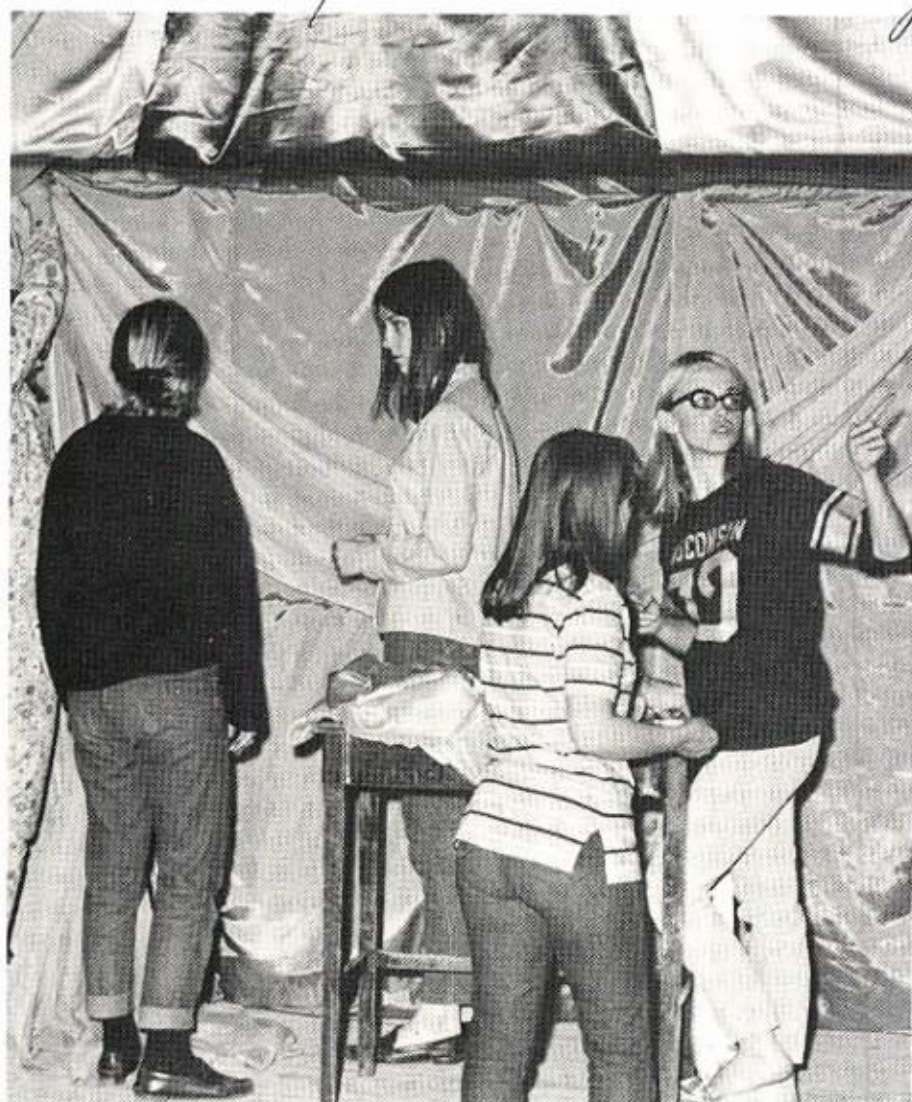

Of the many responsibilities held by the juniors and sophomores at Central, choosing the leader of the student body is perhaps one of the most important. The contest for the presidency of the Student Council is one usually preceded by much hard work and effort and followed by a warm feeling of satisfaction within those involved.

The 1967 election was no exception. Three outstanding junior boys, Bob Black, John DeDakis, and Sam Sundet, were successful in gaining a sufficient number of signatures on their petitions to run for the Student Council Presidency. Following the announcement of the three nominees, a vigorous campaign was begun by each. Backed by an army of supporters and workers, the candidates made a countless number of posters to display throughout the school. Their views on school policies and issues and their qualifications were made known to the voters through the Hi-Trib.

Because there were three candidates, it was essential to hold a primary election. The officeseekers were consequently limited to Sam Sundet and John DeDakis. In the final election on May 12, John DeDakis was selected as the Student Council President for the '67-'68 school year.

Juniors' Farewell to Old Central

The evening reaches its climax as King Sam Sundet crowns his queen, Lynda Wookey.

The Junior Prom proved to be a rewarding climax to the many hours of work and thought put into its creation. The theme "Scheherazade" called for surroundings that were Arabic in nature. Highlights of the decorations were fountains, sand, and off-center peak at one side of the gym forming a huge Arabian tent, and the chiffon and satin throne. A color scheme of purple, yellow and pink served to intensify the mood of the evening.

Paul Christianson and Jennifer Swartz, king and queen of the 1966 Junior Prom, announced the court of 1967. Sam Sundet and Lynda Wookey were chosen to reign over the activities. Completing the court of fourteen were Jim Gilbert and Caroline Stuckey, Mark Kennedy and Barb Pomeroy, Larry Dahl and Mary Amunson, Kim Fry and Kim Stadler, Don Hicke and Margaret Duffy, and Duane Gordan and Lana Grimsrud. After being crowned, the king and queen and their court led the Grand March through the land of "Scheherazade."

Providing the stage for the 1967 Junior Prom, the gym of Old Central did indeed bid a most gracious and memorable farewell to the year's junior class.

Under the flags which represent Centralites who fought in the world wars, Paul Christianson, president of the 1966-67 Student Council, gives the Memorial Day address.

Centralites

The traditional bugle call, given by John Sterling, opened Central's 1967 Memorial Day Assembly. The student body and faculty had solemnly filed out of their classrooms and onto the school lawn for this annual ceremony. Pastor Norman Nelson of Our Redeemer's Lutheran Church followed with the invocation and a brief prayer. The Robed Choir was called on to pay tribute with two vocal selections to those living and dead who had served and were serving our country. "This Is My Country" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" expressed what Centralites felt in their hearts and knew in their minds.

Claudia Lind and Cynthia Swan were escorted by members of the Lettermen's Club to the memorials in front of the building. Here the girls placed a wreath at each stone to commemorate the occasion.

An address by Paul Christianson, President of the student body, concluded the program. In closing the assembly, he asked that each student and faculty member return silently to their classes and their daily schedule. But the thoughts impressed at this gathering were not left outside with the dispersing of the crowd. Each individual had gained an added amount of consideration for those whose duty it had been to defend our nation and its heritage.

So, it sure has been nice knowing you this year. I really envy you for going to Hawaii! I wish I could get out of school and go. Oh well! You had a good time. And that's what counts. Study hall was fun this year. It was noisy but who cares. We had fun. Some day I will have to talk to you about going over seas. Since you went, so can I. That is my goal in the near future. Have lots of fun this summer.

Here We Are, As We Were.

op.cit. is always underlined.

ADP + phosphate $\rightarrow$ ATP

We certainly had interesting times in Mr. W.'s Biology jungle. It was wonderful having smishing labs - if we hadn't work in the lab, we never would have had to be allowed to spend so much time scrubbing clean test tubes and rearranging the dust at our "stations." This is a good point: you don't make any sense either, and, we are basic connectives so is Elmer's glue made of old science teachers. Have fun in Hawaii this summer, winter, spring, fall, and all following summers, winters, springs, falls, and any other seasons you may be able to find. Love Helen

Joan -
 you were really lucky to go to Hawaii
 this year - I really envy you!
 Hope you have a successful future - to a sweet kid -

 Hawaii - 68

JoAnn,

Well, JoJo (!?!!) our school year is almost over. But we still have a full summer at the clinic and hospital left.

Physics sure was fun. we didn't learn a lot, but it was fun.

Remember when we all went out and

You shouldn't eat during class all the time. Your Fritos made us all hungry.

I'll see you at the hospital this summer. We'll get some new interns I think!

Good luck at school next year, and I hope you get back to Hawaii
Natalie

Dear JoAnne,

How sweet is it? I'll never forget your exit to Hawaii, (how we waved you off and you were so loaded down with Brownies and life savers and candy) then all the beautiful postcards while you were away, then your grand and glorious return from Tahiti-Land! Thank you so very much for the carved earrings (they looked beautiful with my Prom dress) and the sweet-smelling perfume (I'm still using it and it smells so yummy) and the beautiful orchid corsage. I will never forget it! Can you remember the time I took the car and picked you up and we drove all over and I almost got caught — that was without my driver's license! Of course!! Then we can never forget all the times we've had so much fun and I've loved every minute of it! I'm so very, very glad I got to know you this year and it's been a wonderful third year. We'll definitely keep in touch next year and I'll write to you and you write back. Then there's this summer — let's make it a doozie!!

Good Luck to you and I know you'll do great things

Your friend always,
Pam Pappas
oor

all if this hasn't in the longest year yet!
I finally made it through.
I didn't wait until we get out of here and on to college. I suppose school wouldn't be so bad if we didn't have to work practically full time besides. But the money always does come in handy - like for going to Hawaii. Waikiki, Oahu etc! This summer is really going to be work work and maybe the results of that will show themselves over semester break. ooh-ya! I'll probably see you this summer a lot at the beach or at the hospital. I'll take good care of your epileptic dog Gismo. Be good now Ann

Go, well, we've spent twelve years working for our short moment of glory next Sunday - I hope your future brings all the happiness you've ever dreamed and I'm sure you'll hit Hawaii again - oh, you can hit the Coops again this summer so you care now and may God bless next fall.
Take care

P.S. Oh, isn't '68 a Great year!!!

Sue White
